Comptroller Releases Report

County Taxes Are 'Average'

By STEVEN ASHER
Freeman Staff

ALBANY — Despite complaints about Ulster County's high taxes, figures released today by the state comptroller indicated that the property tax rates in Ulster County are about average for New York State.

The total of school, county, and municipal property taxes in Ulster County is somewhat higher than in Greene or Sullivan Counties, but distinctly lower than Dutchess County's.

The combined full-value tax rate for the city of Kingston, $40.63, ranks thirty-first among New York's 61 cities excluding New York. New York, because it levies a city income tax as well, was not ranked.

Kingston's rate is well below those of Poughkeepsie, fourth highest in the state at $58.48, Newburgh, third highest at $58.96, and Albany, nineteenth highest at $46.89.

In Ulster County, residents of New Paltz Village paid the highest property taxes at $50.38 per $1,000 of full value. Denning's 297 residents payed the lowest taxes at $21.57 per $1,000

Eleven Ulster municipalities, or almost half the county's communities, had property tax rates averaging below $30. In Greene County, 16 of 19 communities paid $30 or less. In Sullivan County the same ratio held—16 of 19.

In Dutchess County, however, only 6 of 25 communities had average rates below $30, and four communities had rates above $45. Only New Paltz Village and Ellenville Village, at $47.10, topped the $45 mark in Ulster County.

Within the county, the highest school taxes were borne by residents of the New Paltz school district, whose rate varied from $18.93 to $25.98 depending on the community. The lowest rates were charged by the Tri-Valley district, ranging from $10.04 to $12.00.

The property tax rates for school taxes within the Kingston Consolidated school district were between $20.11 and $22.05. City residents paid $21 02 for schools.

County tax rates ranged a low of $3.81 in Hardenburgh to $9.43 in Ellenville Village. Kingston residents paid $6.43 per $1,000.

"A lot of county charges are billed directly to a town's property owner—computer time, compiling water bills or sending out assessment notices—and that accounts for the disparity," explained Jack Reynolds, director of the county Real Property Tax Service Agency. "A town like Hardenburgh or Denning which doesn't use many county services would have a lower rate than a place like Warwarsing," he added.

Minnewaska Wins Delay

KINGSTON — All foreclosure actions against Lake Minnewaska were stayed today when an 11th-hour reprieve came through for the famed resort, which hopes to reorganize and restructure its debts.

Counsel for First National Bank of Highland, which brought the foreclosure action, Stewart Schantz, said he received a stay order from the federal Bankruptcy Court late Thursday.

The acre property was due to go on the auction block at Ulster County Court House at 10 a.m. today. Several prospective bidders were on hand when the announcement of the stay order was revealed.

Lake Minnewaska Mountain Houses owner Kenneth Phillips Jr., told the Freeman recently that his family was seeking refinancing of the lake property which is in default of more than $750,000 plus interest on its mortgage.

Higher College Spending Approved

ALBANY (UPI) — A supplemental budget of approximately $87 million, with more than $40 million for higher education, was agreed to Thursday night by legislative leaders and Gov Hugh Carey, informed sources told United Press International.

Legislative leaders, meeting with the governor at the Executive Mansion, added approximately $10 million to the more than $76 million Carey had proposed for the final spending package of the annual lawmaking session, sources said

The agreement, to be rushed into bill form and then off to the printers, opened the way for a marathon weekend session to finally close the 1976 lawmaking session.

The additional spending, on top of a tenuously balanced $10.8 billion main budget, would be offset by a $37 million reduction in the cost of state borrowing predicted at the April 1 beginning of the fiscal year.

The rest of the additional appropriations would be paid for through reserves provided in the state's fiscal plan or by increases Carey's budget personnel projected in miscellaneous revenues

More than half of the additonal funding the leaders proposed would go to higher education, with an additional $5.5 million for aid to private and community colleges, reliable sources told UPI;

Leaders added $10 million to the $76 million Carey had proposed.

Upstaters, both Democrats and Republicans, viewed the additional college aid as politically necessary in an election year because of the greatly increased Tuition Assistance Program funds that would go to City University of New York students.

Carey's proposed supplemental budget spending, revealed by UPI Thursday, would total approximately $76 million

About $35 million of that amount would go to TAP, with $20 million going to CUNY students as a result of imposition of tuition at the New York City colleges The $20 million amounted to half of the academic year cost of TAP due to the CUNY tuition.

The leaders also were pushing for additional funding to restore some of the program cuts at State University campuses, although no dollar figure was available for that proposed appropriation

Another politically important appropriation requested by the leaders was $1.2 million to restore full operations at a number of state parks, which were closed one day a week by budget cuts imposed by the governor

The leaders, according to sources, backed an additional $900,000 for State Police operations, which suffered a $1 million cutback in the governor's executive budget and an additional $946,000 at the hands of the legislature.

The reduction of the troopers' budget to $67 million and the resulting cutbacks in police coverage in many rural areas had prompted upstate lawmakers to push for the restoration.

Another major appropriation would be $10 million to pay for the shortage in funding the school aid distribution formula

Other spending proposed by the governor included $2 million to buy new cars for the state's motor pool, $9 million for judgments against the state, and $1 million for the Division of the Budget for research and investigation

Lynch Is Leaving Friday

KINGSTON — Ulster County Sheriff Thomas Mayone will be relieved of responsibility for guarding accused kidnaper Mel Patrick Lynch next Friday

Joseph Wasser of the State Commission of Corrections has signed an order relieving Mayone of the detail that has aroused controversy between Ulster and Westchester counties over hospital payments for Lynch. Lynch, accused of kidnaping Seagram whiskey heir Samuel Bronfman III, was first confined in the Westchester County Jail in Valhalla but was transferred to the Ulster County Jail in October, 1975, after threats to his life there.

Hinchey Proposes Tax-Exempt Crackdown

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA
Freeman Staff

ALBANY — Some $72 million in tax-exempt property in Ulster County could be put on local tax rolls if a bill approved Thursday in the Assembly is also passed by the Senate.

The bill, sponsored by Assemblyman Maurice Hinchey, D-101st Dist., would allow local assessors to place exempt property on the tax rolls if the property "is clearly not being used for legitimate tax-exempt purposes."

Its major affect locally would be on large tracts of property in southern Ulster County, owned by what Hinchey said are "quasi-religious organizations, or even pseudo-religious or completely bogus groups."

One possible loser could be the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society. The Town of Shawangunk currently carries $13 million in exempt property on three tracts taken off the rolls there and owned by the Society

"Much of their holdings have little to do with valid reasons for tax exemption under the law and, in some cases, the land is used to make a profit," Hinchey said

If the bill becomes law, it would lower the tax burden on a number of Ulster towns Local assessors could put exempt property on their rolls once it is no longer used "exclusively" for exempt purposes under state law.

Where part of a single plot is being used for the taxexempt purpose but another is not, the assessor could pro-rate the assessment based on a percentage of the property not used for the tax-exempt purposes, the assemblyman said

The Hinchey bill will be sponsored in the Senate by State Sen. Richard E. Schermerhorn, R-40th Dist. Since it passed in the Assembly by a close party-line vote, its future is uncertain. A similar bill died in the Senate last year

Four Indicted in Drug Sales; Penalty Is Life

KINGSTON — Four young men face mandatory life sentences for allegedly selling less than an ounce of drugs to undercover agents of the Ulster County Sheriff's Department. They were indicted yesterday by the June Ulster County grand jury.

Ronald R. Dunham, 22, Kingston, was charged with selling less than 1/8 of an ounce of cocaine to an undercover agent April 4 in Shandaken.

Arthur Singer, 22, New York City, was charged with selling less than 1/8 of an ounce of heroin to an undercover agent May 15 in New Paltz.

John Malnowsky, 21, Bellmore, N.Y., and Robert McGrath, 21, of the Bronx were indicted for allegedly selling less than an ounce of methedrine to an undercover agent on May 18 in New Paltz.

All four are charged with criminal sale of a controlled substance in the third degree, an A-3 felony which carries a mandatory life sentence.

The grand jury also indicted Anthony Coppola, 24, and Louis Panzera, 26, both of Highland. They were accused of breaking into a New Paltz apartment on March 12 and taking items worth more than $250. They were charged with second degree burglary and third degree criminal possession of stolen property

Neil Purdy was also indicted by the grand jury on three counts of incest.

Harold May of Ellenville was indicted on one count of third degree burglary for allegedly breaking into Manton's Store in Ellenville on March 26.

The grand jury dismissed charges against James Sheridan, who had been arrested for second degree assault in Rochester on March 7.

Three counts of issuing bad checks totaling over $2,000 against Richard Joseph were ordered transferred by the grand jury to Marlboro Town Court.

Coppola, Panzera, and May will be arraigned Monday. The arraignment of the other five indicted by the June grand jury has not yet been scheduled.

There's Plenty of County Takers For That $478,000 Works Plum

KINGSTON —Ulster County and its municipalities are fully prepared to take immediate advantage of $478,000 that could come their way over the next four months for local public works projects. A spot check by the Freeman showed local officials had anticipated the possibility of receiving the federal funds, had done their homework far in advance, and were champing at the bit to get going.

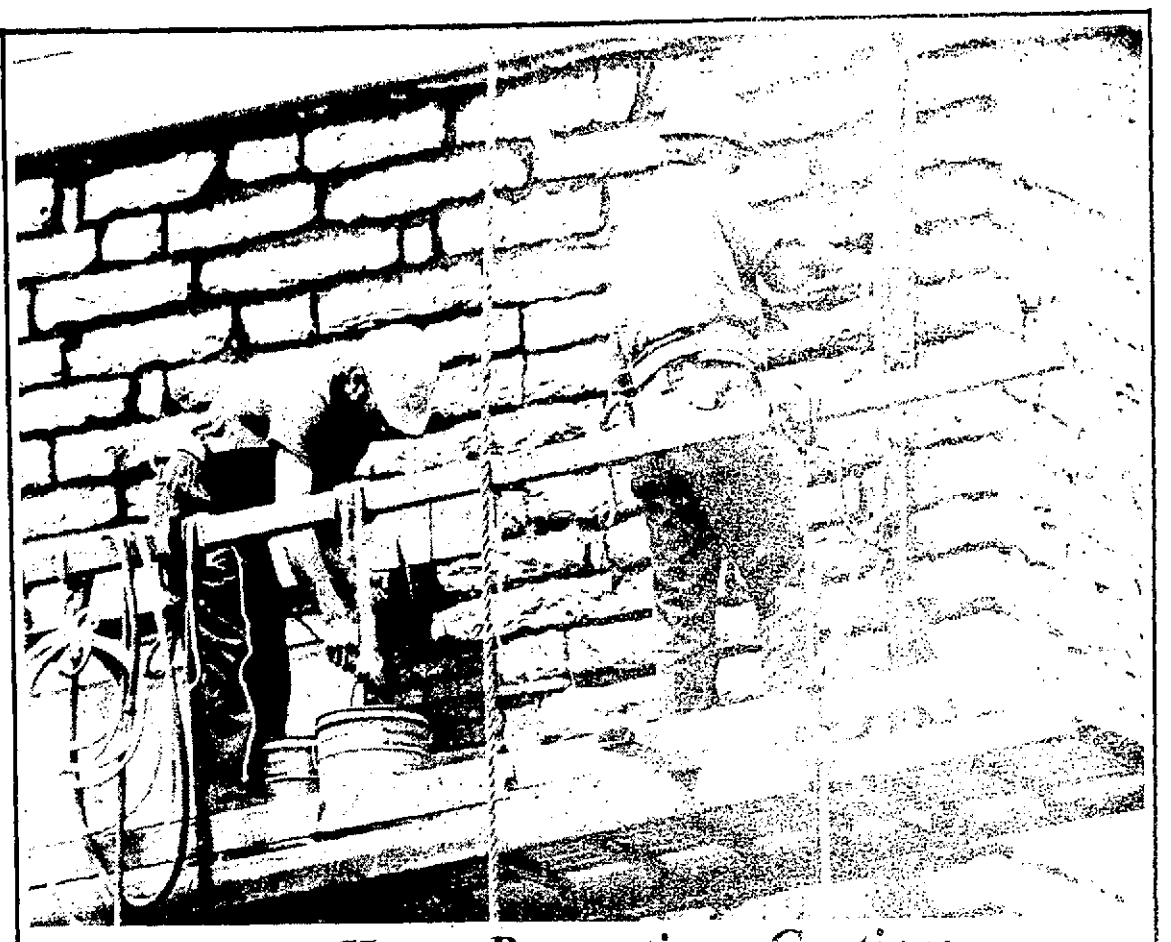
The money has been earmarked for only those projects that would create new, on-the-job employment within 90 days, and Kenneth Whispell, superintendent of the County Building and Construction Department, said the county is ready to move on two major projects that would meet the funding requirements. One is a new highway department administration building, he said, for which architectural plans were drawn months ago in anticipation of the passage of a Local Public Works bill in Washington.

"The county legislature will apply for a certain percentage of funding toward the construction of that kind of highway building," said Whispell. "And since we have already approved an architect and authorized bonding for a health-related facility at the County Infirmary, the legislature will apply for a certain amount of money toward its construction to reduce the anount of bonding necessary.

Also well prepared to move fast in a bid for funds is the Town of Rosendale. Supervisor Richard Glazer said applications have already been prepared for several projects. "We have a need for a new highway barn, and for an entirely new site for the barn," he said. "And we have an application to put people to work on our water district, where a lot of work is required on new pipes and new linea." Glazer also said Rosendale would like to apply for funds to build new recreational facilities at the town's new recreation center. "We long ago alerted our architects and engineers on these projects," he said, "so we could act immediately on any public works bill out of Washington."

Since the federal money can also be used for projects already planned, but held up because of funding problems, the Town of Woodstock could qualify in several areas. "We need everything," said Supervisor Valerie Cadden, "but top priority will go to renovating the former Catholic church property purchased by the town to give us some more office space. We also had to stop construction of three new tennis courts because of budgetary problems, and we could create jobs for other recreational facilities." She also said Woodstock has long needed a second water tower and a storage building at the highway barn, and that renovation projects are pend ing on the library and the building at the town's landfill site.

The Freeman poll showed that many Ulster officials have been planning to latch on to public works funds since late last fall and early winter.



Court House Renovations Continue

Ulster County's venerable Court House will be putting its best front forward when renovation work to old 1818 is completed Workmen from Crest Building Restoration Corporation are cleaning and pointing up the building's masonry this week The County Legislature approved a $64,600 contract with Crest last month to spruce up the historic "Publick Building" on Kingston's Wall Street (Freeman photo.)

Private Schools Must Integrate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court ruled today that a Reconstruction Era federal law compels white private schools to admit blacks

Justice Potter Stewart wrote the court's opinion, explaining the law's provision giving blacks the right to make and enforce contracts

He rejected the argument advanced by private school operators that the requirement violated their right to free association and privacy and a parent's right to educate his children as he sees fit

The 7-2 ruling applies to commercially operated private schools which have no church affiliation

Stewart called the discrimination practiced by Bobbe's School in Arlington, Va, and Fairfax-Brewster School in Fairfax, Va, "a classic violation" of the law.

"... Parents have a First Amendment right to send their children to educational institutions that promote the belief that racial segregation is desirable, and children have an equal right to attend such institutions," Stewart said

"But it does not follow that the practice of excluding racial minorities from such institutions is also protected by the same principle"

Other Supreme Court decisions on discrimination in education have dealt with public schools and whether state laws could pass muster under the Constitution The blacks in today's case used the law to challenge discrimination by private individuals, which the Constitution does not reach

The federal government sided with the blacks by filing a brief but did not argue the case

In upholding the constitutionality of the law, Stewart said while invidious private discrimination may be characterized as a form of exercising freedom of association, it never has been accorded "affirmative constitutional protections"

Dissenters were Justices Byron R. White and William H. Rehnquist They pointed out that the law has been on the books since 1870 They said to construe it as the court now has done for the first time is contrary to the language of the law, its legislative history and the dictum of the court in cases decided about the time the law was passed

Area Water Rates Approved

ALBANY — The Public Service Commission has approved new rates for two Ulster County water districts.

Leewood Knolls, serving 24 customers in the Town of Hurley, will increase its revenues by $1,692 annually by putting new metered rates into effect July 1. They replace the present flat rate charge of $40 annually.

The amount of increase will vary in proportion to metered usage and is expected to range from $14 for small users (40,000 gallons) up to $87 for large users (92,000 gallons).

The company's total revenues are expected to increase by 176 per cent, but an income statement developed by the commission staff indicates that Leewood Knolls would have a net income of only $4 a year as a result of the increase.

The other rate increased was for Granite Estates, a subdivision in the Town of Rochester that serves five year-round and eight seasonal customers. The charge to year-round customers will rise from $75 to $170 a year and to seasonal customers from $75 to $105 a season (May 1 to Sept. 30). The new rates privide the company with a net income of $596 a year.

SUNY Plan: Solve Social. Economic Ills

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — The head of State University says the school's major direction over the next four years will be toward helping solve social and economic ills.

Chancellor Ernest Boyer released a SUNY "master plan" Thursday in which he said, "The university's first major objective will be to expand its public service program" through better coordination with public and private organizations to solve social and economic problems."

In addition, the plan called for increased emphasis on medical and health care and research.

Also called for was a leveling off of students in the university system.

While calling for a slowdown in SUNY's rapid expansion, the report called for increased emphasis on research, a reorganization of undergraduate education and better cooperation with outside agencies to solve social problems.

The master plan is prepared every four years for incorporation into a statewide plan developed by the state Board of Regents.

The plan projected an enrollment equivalent to a full-time student body of 187,500 in 1980. The current level is 171,500.

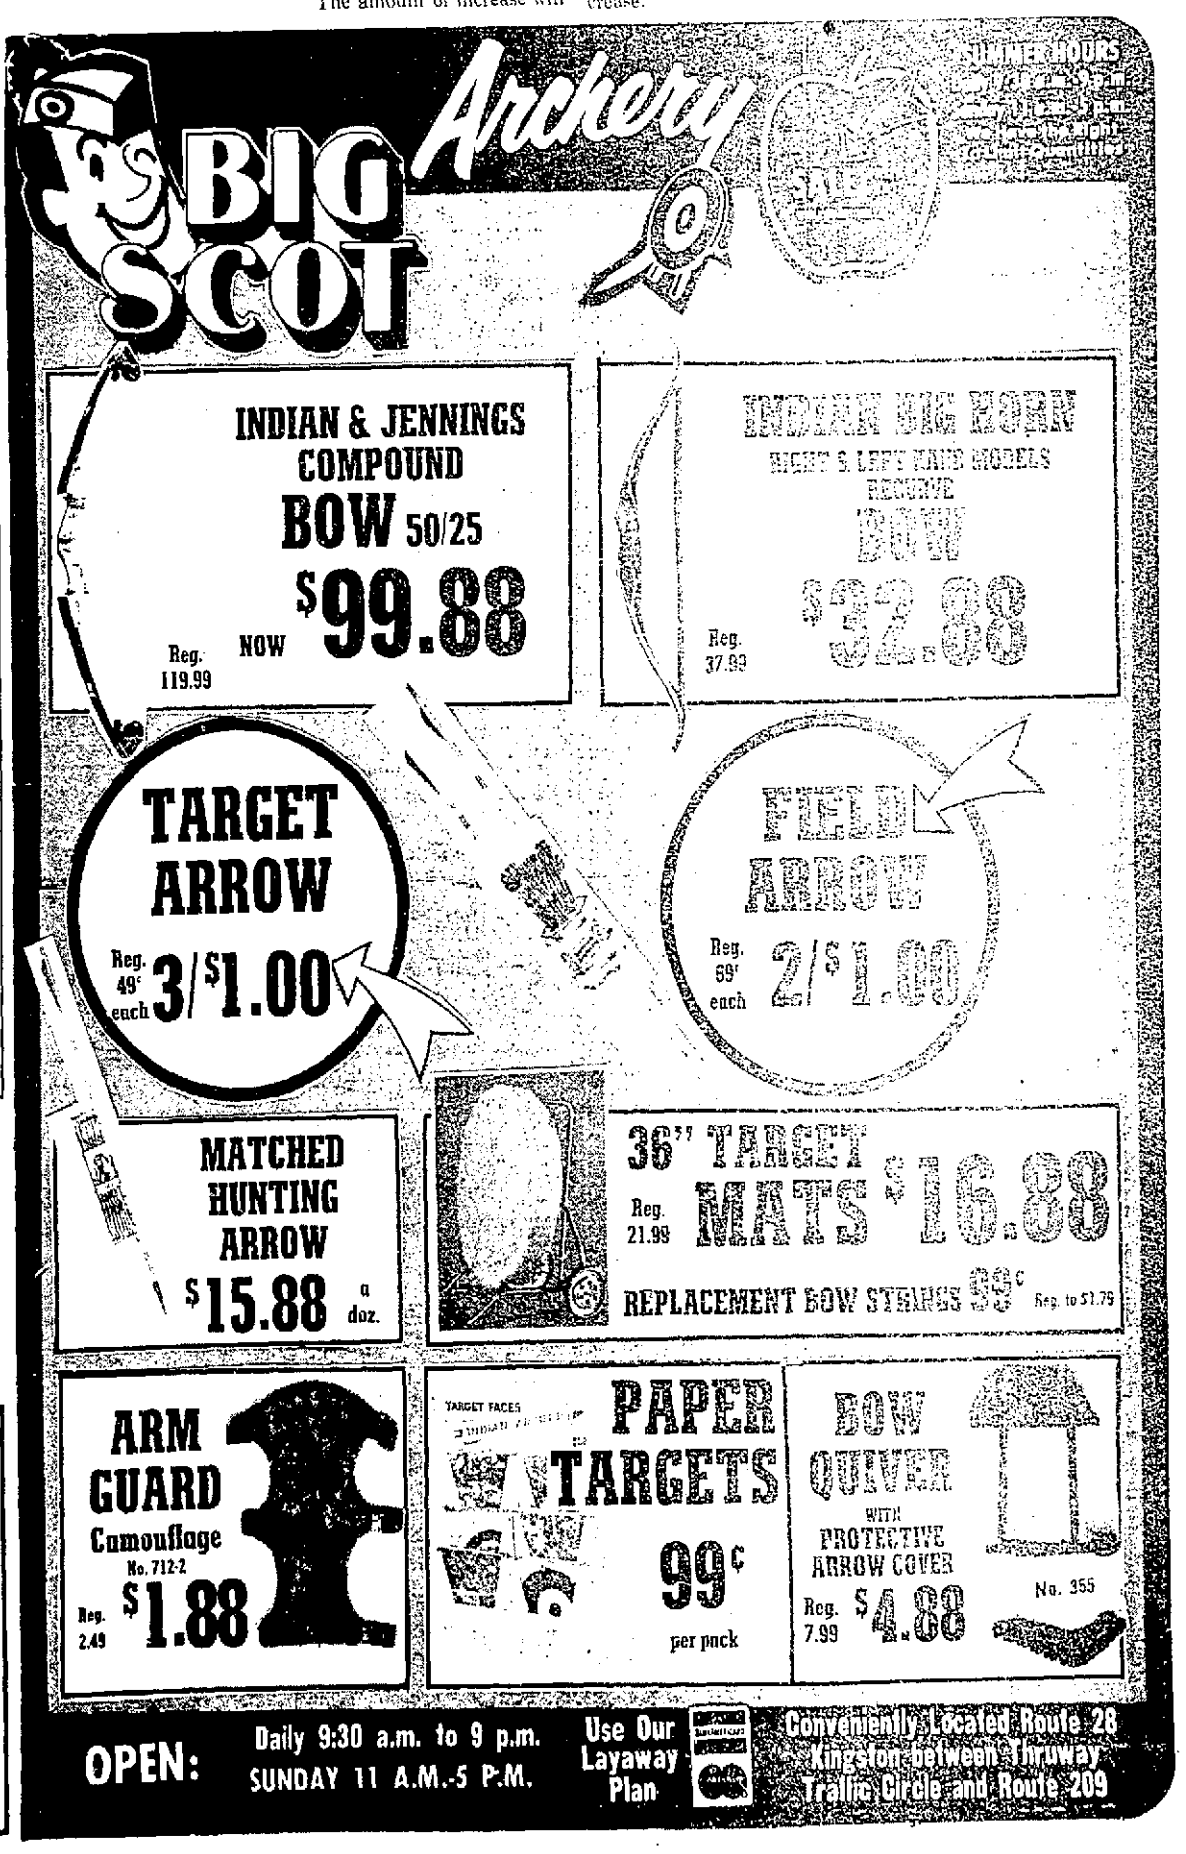
Boyer noted that the new 1980 estimate was much lower than the projection of 268,300 full-time students which was made in 1968.

A Guide for Ulster County Shoppers

KINGSTON — It costs $3.18 more a week to feed an average family of four in the Lloyd-Marlboro area than in the New Paltz-Rosendale-Port Ewen area, according to figures released today by the Ulster County Consumer Information Service.

The service released figures representing the cost of a 38-item market basket of foods in five areas around Ulster County for the week ending June 18. The prices were: New Paltz-Rosendale -Port Ewen area: $65, Kingston: $65.87, Ellenville-Warwarsing area: $66.02, Woodstock-Saugerties area: $66.66, and Lloyd-Marlboro: $68.13.

This means that food prices in the Lloyd area were 4.8 per cent higher than in the New Paltz area, based on the service's survey of 16 chain stores around the county. Woodstock prices were 2.6 per cent higher, Ellenville prices 1.6 per cent higher, and Kingston prices 1.3 per cent above the New Paltz-Rosendale-Port Ewen figures.



WATER HOLE

Tya Bassett, left, and Theresa Cruz, tried to beat the heat Thursday with a dip into the Academy Green Park wading pool, but had to settle for a sprinkle on their feet. The wading pools won't be filled until June 30, when park directors arrive in the parks, according to a Recreation Department spokesman.

Artillery, Mortar Duels Paralyze Beirut

Editors Note: UPI communi- cation lines with Beirut have been cut since Wednesday. The following incorporates the latest information from our Beirut bureau filed Thursday through the State Department

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Artillery and mortar duels between right-wing Christian and Palestinian-Moslem gunners left a sweltering Beirut without power, water and bread today.

The rain of steel on this torrid capital city prevented the baking of bread and knocked out remaining electrical power and water supplies. The city's main electric pylons were severed Wednesday.

Artillery duels raged across the zig-zag "green line" partitioning Moslem and Christian Beirut. U.S. Ambassador Francis Meloy, his economic counselor Robert O. Waring and their Lebanese driver were ambushed and murdered in this no man's land last week.

Related story on Page 7

The fighting was sparked by a four-day-old Christian offensive against Palestinian defenders from the Jisr al Pasha and Tal Zaatar refugee camps in southeastern Beirut.

The 4,000-strong rightist force, dug in atop Talat Al Mir hill overlooking the camps, Thursday gave the Palestinians three days to surrender.

Palestinian sources said the defiant camp commander told the Christians to "go to hell."

In an effort to relieve pressure on the camps, Palestinians and their Lebanese leftist allies unleashed artillery and ground attacks against Christian sectors throughout downtown and eastern Beirut.

Three bullets zipped through the windshield of reporters attempting to cross the lines. They turned back.

A Palestine Liberation Organization spokesman said eight persons had now been arrested in connection with the death of Meloy, Waring and their chauffeur and more arrests were expected soon.

Palestinians said they had dislodged rightist attackers from Talat al Mir hill overlooking the besieged camps. But the Christians, who captured the hill early Thursday, claimed it was still theirs.

The Palestinians charged Christians, from the private militias of President Suleiman Franjieh and Interior Minister Camille Chamoun, attacked the camps to give Syria a new pretext to keep its invasion force in Lebanon. Both Franjieh and Chamoun support the Syrian intervention.

Both sides reported heavy casualties.

"The battles are increasing in ferocity," a Palestinian spokesman said.

pulled backed from Khalde, southeast of the just-reopened Beirut airport, in accordance with the pact.

They were replaced by white-helmeted Syrian and Libyan peace-keeping troops under Arab League command.

The Syrian-Palestinian agreement also called for a Syrian withdrawal from the outskirts of the port towns of Sidon and Tripoli by Saturday.

But with the renewed fighting, it was doubtful the deadline would be met. Local reporters in Sidon, however, said Damascus was in reality bringing in fresh troops.

Say Mars Almost Lunarlike

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — The more the Viking scientists learn about Mars the more confident they grow that its life-hunting capsule can settle safely on a smooth landing site July 4.

But that has not prevented the formation of rival scientific bands — "the inundators" vs. "the tricklers" — much less explain "Gentry's freeways" across the barren Martian plains.

Pictures from the orbiting Viking 1 have convinced scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory that Mars is more like the moon.

"Some areas of Mars are remarkably lunarlike," Dr. Harold Masursky said Thursday, comparing them to the plains of the moon dubbed "mare" or "seas" by ancient astronomers.

"We see 'mare,' ridges, which are very common on the moon, and tiny craters adjacent to the ridges. We think Viking has a fine chance on this kind of surface."

Masursky is a member of the site certification team, responsible for evaluating the location where the Viking's lander will settle and begin its automated search for microorganisms.

The primary site is Chryse at the mouth of a network of what appear to be cone- or dry stream beds, a likely source for the running water actually did create the channels, whose origin has divided the scientists.

One group — "the inundators" — theorizes that water was once abundant, running in streams across the surface, carving out gullies and channels, Masursky said.

The others — "the slow tricklers" — believe that Mars has always been arid, but the channels were worn away by small amounts of water flowing in trickles, perhaps for hundreds of millions of years, much like the Grand Canyon was formed on Earth.

But no one can explain what Masursky called "the most strange feature" — thin lines wandering along slopes and across craters.

Scientists accustomed to comparing features with similar formations on the moon or to photos of Earth taken from space, found the lines "look like a feature, which we've seen on Landsat photos " of Earth — "all of which turned out to be roads," Masursky said.

"A road seems a little extreme," he cautioned. "We don't have the vaguest idea what the feature is. it's an interesting white streak."

None of the scientists believes the lines are roads, but for the time being they dubbed them "Gentry's Leeways" after scientist Gentry Lee.

WP SCANDAL

Officer: Nearly Half of Class May Have Cribbed

WEST POINT, N.Y. (UPI) — An officer involved in screening possible cheating by U.S. Military Academy cadets reportedly testified that nearly half the 850-member junior class may have cribbed on an assignment.

Capt. Bruce D. Sweeny, one of three officers in the electrical engineering department, who reviewed cadet papers for possible cheating, told a board of officers hearing charges against seven cadets that as many as 400 of 823 juniors in the course might have cheated, according to sources attending the hearing.

The West Point scandal has blossomed since the faculty reported widespread cheating on a take-home problem in the required course and sent more than 100 names to a cadet honor committee.

Cadets, who cheat, face dismissal from the school, the punishment handed out to almost all cadets convicted of even minor infractions.

Thus far, 171 cadets have been charged with cheating. Four resigned. Officer boards convicted 11 and acquitted one. More boards are scheduled to meet through the summer.

Sweeny said late Thursday, "I'm really not in a position to discuss it. I really can't make any statement, officially or otherwise." He said his remarks were recorded in transcripts of the hearings.

Lt. Col. Thomas Garigan, a school spokesman, said he had talked to Sweeny, a prosecution attorney and two defense attorneys and none could agree on exactly what Sweeny's testimony had been.

Persons in the room at the time of the testimony said a defense attorney asked for Sweeny's estimate of how many cadets might have been involved and was told a "conservative" guess was 300. More questioning elicited an estimate of 400 "possible" cases, the witnesses said.

Lt. Col. Heilbron Love, one of the other two, who screened papers with Sweeny, could not be reached for comment. Capt. Charles Sutten, the third member, said he could not comment on the matter.

The testimony coincided with Senate subcommittee hearings in Washington into the sternly enforced West Point honor code and similar standards at the other service academies.

Several cadets have claimed the cheating was more widespread than the school's investigation showed. Rep. Thomas Downey, D-N.Y., testified at the congressional hearing that only "unsophisticated" cadets were caught.

Fun City Sewage Woes as Well

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Since 1965, the efficiency at the New York City's sewage treatment plants has deteriorated, with 96 million gallons of raw sewage being discharged daily in one recent year, state auditors charge.

The reduction in quality coincided with a $1.5 billion sewage treatment plant contruction program by the city and in many instances was caused by contruction on various plants, state Comptroller Arthur Levitt's office said Thursday.

Annual tests done by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency showed that many plants could not handle the sewage load flowing into them, and sewage was being released at treatment levels below current state and federal standards.

From 1969 to 1972, the city was dumping much of its sewage into surrounding waters without treatment. The practice increased by 70 per cent during that four-year period and by 1973, the report said, 17 per cent of the city's total sewage flow was being bypassed.

The raw sewage being bypassed went from 12 million gallons per day in 1969 to 96 million per day in 1973, an increase from 6 per cent of the total to 17 per cent, the report said. During the same period, the total flow increased 10 per cent, from 1.085 million gallons a day in 1969 to 1.216 billion gallons per day in 1973.

"Much of the bypassing is due to the construction work in progress, which, according to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, could have been mitigated through greater vigilance," the report said. Equipment breakdown and limited plant capacity also contributed to the bypassing.

Although part of the delay was attributed to processing interruptions due to construction, plants working beyond rated capacity and aging equipment, the report also noted that the city's Environmental Protection Administration "planned poorly and erred in the design of plants and equipment."

State Court Reform Still Up in the Air

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — The Assembly and Senate, anxious to grab the spotlight in an election year, have each passed their own version of three "court reform" constitutional amendments.

Unless some compromise is reached in the waning days of the lawmaking session, the public will not get a chance to vote on any proposals until at least 1979.

The Democrat-controlled Assembly pushed through three bills Thursday night, two days after the Republican-dominated Senate passed three similar, but not identical, proposals.

The most controversial of the Assembly bills would eliminate the election of the seven members of the Court of Appeals, the state's highest court.

Under the proposal, Court of Appeals members would be appointed by the governor from a list of nominations prepared by a screening panel made up of appointees of the legislative leaders and the chief judge of the high court.

The other two bills would create a Commission on Judicial Conduct to discipline judges and would place the control of a unified court system in the hands of the Court of Appeals' chief judge.

The Assembly sponsor, Assemblyman John Thorp, D-Rockville Centre, said, "Every effort has been made and is being made to try to work out the differences" between the two houses' versions.

...Energy Bills Pass

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — The Assembly entering the final few days of the lawmaking session, has approved a package of seven bills designed to promote energy conservation.

However, most of the proposals approved by the Democrat-controlled Assembly Thursday face dim propects in the Republican-dominated Senate.

The measure facing the stiffest opposition in the Assembly was a bill which would have provided loans of up to $1,000 to consumers to insulate their homes.

The bill would allow consumers to finance such loans through their utility bills.

The sponsor, Assemblyman Vincent Graber, D-West Seneca, said the monthly charge for interest and principal on the loan would be more than offset by savings through lower utility charges due to the insulation.

Critics charged the bill had technical defects and would place an unfair burden on the utilities. The measure was approved 77-42 but is given little chance in the Senate.

Other proposals would mandate the development of a state energy conservation building code, property tax exemptions for solar-heated homes and insulation standards for hot water heaters.

WHITA Has Done Its Job

Dear Editor:

I have read with interest the exchange of letters between a teenage pupil and an experienced mother of children. (who is secretary of WHITA, of which I am one of the directors) and I thought that I would not be involved as I do not live in the Kingston School District. My wife and I both pay taxes to this district and the teenage pupil has repeatedly asked. "What has WHITA done?" I believe it is proper to set the record straight. I do speak from experience as I was the local school board attorney of New Paltz for over forty years, and I am proud to be a member of WHITA.

WHITA was deeply involved in the BOCES fiasco when the Education Department attempted to railroad through the site at Bloomington, which finally resulted in obtaining a better and cheaper location in Esopus.

WHITA, with support of the right thinking citizens, was able to block the proposed high school at Mt. Marion. The Board of Education has wasted about $700,000 of the taxpayers' money, including $115,779.00 paid for "Schematic design phase" of a proposed $11,435,000 building which did not include contingencies, reserve funds, kitchen equipment, etc., besides broker's fees which I am informed were billed to both the seller and the school district, and engineering fees; and there is a $350,000 purchase from Sabino, and legal action by Vasilich for breach of proposed condemnation.

Then there was the trip to Dallas by four members of the school board and superintendent, at a cost to the local taxapyer of $3,456 and this at a time when funds for supplies to the pupils had been curtailed.

It is crystal clear that the teenage pupil has never attended a meeting of WHITA, where everything is open and above-board. A detailed financial report is given at every monthly meeting.

We cannot blame the local school board for all our current fiscal woes of school financing, when about 93 per cent is so called "mandated" by the State Department of Education which has enacted into the Education Law, Sec. 310, which reads, in part, as follows: "his (Commissioner's) decision in such appeals, petitions, or proceedings shall be final and conclusive, and not subject to question or review in any place or court whatever," which no other state has considered proper or necessary.

The results have been most disappointing. With more than 1,600,000 school students more in California than in New York State, our unit price is higher, and we are rated six in administration.

The self-created rules of the New York State Education Department are about as flexible as a rubber band. About 20 years ago in the Wallkill School District the people were informed by the Education Department that they could not add to the school. Additional land was a purchased and a new school built thereon, and after that, there has been four additions, or major changes, in the original school building.

Critics of WHITA have not read its constitution and by-laws. I have never belonged to any organization that had a higher or purer goal to obtain cleaner and economical results for the common people. The real battle to eliminate wrongs in our government and political sub-divisions lies ahead.

The Education Department does not teach or practice economy.

Shanker, of the Teachers' Union, pays $2,000 per week to the New York Times for his Sunday column to operate the Education Department for the Teachers' Union's personal benefit.

The Education Department has the largest lobby in Albany.

We have too many Ph.D.s, etc.' who are bank tellers and taxi drivers.

The public is becoming aware that the old comeon that we have to spend more and more money to get quality education is so much baloney. New York State spent $2,095 per pupil in average daily attendance during 1974-75. Now the time has come for every New York taxpayer to ask what it is we are paying so much for!

New York is graduating thousands of children from high school who cannot read. spell, write a coherent sentence, or solve a simple mathematical problem. We are faced with spending additional millions of dollars for remedial programs.

It is obvious spending more money is not the answer to the educational problem. It is time the state reviewed its mandated educational programs and eliminated unproductive ones. It is time to bring back the basics for our youngsters. It is time to eliminate those who have permitted a once sound educational system to become an extravagant hodge podge of experimentation.

We need more people like Mary McMickle, involved in our common problems with the vision to see and the courage to act if we are to make democracy work.

PETER H. HARP

Carey Veto Imposes Morality

Dear Editor:

We are bitterly disappointed that Gov. Carey has chosen to ignore the wishes of the people of this state.

While I have not yet seen the governor's statement, I understand that one of the reasons he uses is that the Supreme Court has not yet ruled on this matter. This is of no relevance at all. The people of this state wanted to go on record. They wanted to stand up loud and clear for parents' rights.

Well, the people have gone on record and both houses of the legislature which represent the people have gone on record. But one man with one stroke of the pen has voided the wishes of the people.

Mr. Carey has done what he has stated he would never do — he has imposed his morality on others and his morality evidently does not include the right of a parent to discuss major decisions with a minor daughter.

'Whole' Butternut Knoll Story

Dear Editor:

The letter from the St. John, Ronder & Bell law firm hailing the Appellate Court's decision in the long contested Butternut Knolls subdivision matter in the Town of Olive which appeared recently in your paper raises interesting questions that may only be apparent to those few who know the "whole" story of the Butternut Knolls saga.

Operating on the belief that your readers should be exposed to both sides of the story, we would like to share the following comments with you.

While we are, of course, disappointed with the Appellate Court's decision, we believe in legal process, and will accept the result.

As Howard St. John's "delegate" in the Butternut Knolls matter, Attorney Darwak has produced a surprisingly self-serving treatise in his recent letter to you. From the very beginning, when the widow Timmerman was "counseled" by the St. John firm to accept Valda Construction's low offer for her land, it was apparent to those of us exposed to the entire story that this was but another case of big power and big money moving into the Town of Olive.

Vald Construction Co. may have become the unwitting pawn in a business activity that will see substantial sums of money flow to the St. John legal, mortgage banking, title search, and insurance businesses as a result of the construction of the Butternut Knolls subdivision. This is the essence of the rationale behind Butternut Knolls. It is possible that the St. John interests stand to gain more from the construction of this subdivision than the builder who is erecting it.

Attorney Darwak's glowing praise of a town Attorney John Lynch and the various members of the Town Board and Planning Board insults the intelligence of the knowledgeable residents of the Town of Olive. Words are cheap, and apparently for that reason Attorney Darwak has chosen to dispense them with such largess.

The court has reached its decision - so be it; but the fact remains that the entire process was a travesty on how local town government should deal with developers in order to protect the interests of its existing residents.

We fought clean and hard and without an ulterior motive. We lost and we acknowledge the loss. Our only regret is that big power and special interest groups were able to ramrod approval of a development that was really not in the best interests of the town.

Moral Rage Is on the Loose

WASHINGTON - It used to be that you could ruin a politician with two unnamed sources: now you can do it with one brazen hooker. And hooker doesn't seem to be too pungent a word to use for a woman who insists her principal employment is sex for money.

It won't do to come down too hard on hookers. One of America's enduring folk stereotypes is the hooker with the heart of gold. Among the rough trade of the cat houses and the riding academies they cherish the sentimental doctrine that the right hooker makes the best and most faithful of wives. Jesus finds more good things to say about hookers than about the editorialists who denounced them. He also had, if only by implication, a few kind words for the millions of us who are the hookers' customers.

Hookers, therefore, have an old and established place in our society and a specialized task to perform as do bankers, street sweepers, doctors and journalists. That task doesn't include being the doubtful instruments for the ruination of their clients' careers.

The rationale behind this most trivial of increasingly large scandals is that public money, taxpayers' money, is being used for sinful, immoral and deliciously lascivious purposes. If every accusation and allegation about this use of public money is true, the total sum involved wouldn't buy one wheel on a B-1 bomber. It wouldn't buy a wing tip.

Let this growing Washington sex-scandal, as the media have taken to calling the witch-hunt, continue to unroll. As it grows and grows and grows, it will engulf two-thirds of the male population of the United States and thereby illustrate a point that every American over the age of 15 is perfectly aware of -namely that we are a people who are monogamous in form and faithlessly promiscuous in fact.

Unless you want to turn the Senate into the House of 100 Virgins, junk the idea that our elected officials should be our moral exemplars. There could be no more bizarre test of public office than sexual purity. Can you imagine this great and free Republic of fornicators and adulterers presided over by a small corps of blue-nosed magistrates whose only distinction is that they know no bed nor mate but their own?

To no inconsiderable degree the politicians have made themselves vulnerable to being sexually blackballed out of public life. They make sure every piece of their campaign literature has a picture of themselves, the little woman, the darling kids and the family poodle. They go out of their way to teech the electorate there is a correlation between a stolid, solid bourgeois family man and capacity for public office. Many a time they beat the ministers to the pulpits to denounce depravity in the movies and filth in literature.

For at least two generations the more commonsensical social thinkers have implored them to get the sex laws off the books and make anything legal, be it for free or for commerce, that is done in private between consenting adults. They have been told again and again that these laws are only good for bribery, blackballing, blackmail and blackguardery. This time they are the victims: next time around it'll be the school teachers who get it and maybe, if we keep selling papers by these tawdry means, there'll be an inquiry launched into the sex lives of us journalists. Anybody with a high profile is fair game for any sort of nut, political enemy or Capitol Hill Xaviera Hollander with dollar signs instead of irises in his or her eyes.

As a matter of policy a prudent person has to wonder if our tax dollars might not be best spent on Happy Hookers for our statesmen. Make them make love, not war. Seduce them. They do less damage abed than they do abroad. They don't raise taxes or cause serious mischief when they're in their pajamas. Conversely, think of the consequences for world peace if sexual relief from stress and conflict is denied them. An angry, horny (any newspaper that has printed a picture of Lizzie Ray's decolletage and deletes that word is two-faced) American officialdom is a frightful prospect.

When the anti-sexual moral rage is loose, most of us sinners allow ourselves to be cowed into kowtowing toward values we, ourselves, personally don't hold. The Christers, the anti-orgasmic Jeremiahs, the sensual-repressives and the Savonarolas are claiming a universal belief in moral and behavioral norms that tens of millions of us don't hold and happily transgress without guilt. They hog the stage and we keep quiet. That's okay for Jerry Ford who has nothing other than monogamy to recommend him for the office he holds; but if this, the least of all virtues, is now to be a sign of integrity in our politicians, Carl Albert should convene an all-nude session of the Home of Representatives (house is a dirty word) and prove they have nothing to hide.

Odds Against Legalized Gambling

Some hotel owners on Miami Beach would like to build gambling casinos. Legally, of course. Thirty years ago, they had illegal craps tables and roulette wheels. This was run by the Syndicate from a little town called Hallandale. Then some honest cops were sworn in, and gambling became a crime.

Doing the same thing legally is like getting married. A lot of fun without remorse. However, an honest bookie should give you odds of 500-to-1 that Miami Beach will never have legalized gaming tables. One must consider the enemies of casinos and their wallop.

The first is Florida's Governor Reuben Askew. The image is pure, undefiled, religious - an incorruptible. He's opposed to casinos in Miami Beach. The handsome governor has strange allies.

The government of The Bahamas is opposed because they have casinos. They do not want to cut the tourist dollar with Miami Beach. That thinking also applies to Las Vegas, which will spend a fortune fighting casinos anywhere else.

The Syndicate - alias the Mob - is willing to pour millions into the fight because it thrives on illegal gambling. They are opposed to legality. The clergy is allied with Vegas and the Mob because of an innocent assumption that gambling is sinful.

And yet, on some Sundays, they tell us how the Roman soldiers rolled dice for the clothes of Jesus. The Gold Coast of Florida also has race tracks, dog tracks, harness tracks and jai-alai. All of them want 100 per cent of the legal bet; they have no desire to split it with casinos.

Gambling is a big industry. Last year, horse players bet $5.5 billion. Roughly, $207 million was paid in taxes. Harness racing took in $2.6 billion.

The suckers reach for instant riches. Few are content to bet on a winner. They fall for the exotic bets - buying a ticket which divines which horses will finish first and second, or first, second and third.

I knew a bellman at the Diplomat Hotel who won $64,000 on this type of bet. It was great. He ruined his life, lost his wife and children, and swallowed a lot of pills.

Two years ago, four jockeys, sitting on favorites, finished far back, and the Maryland Racing Association convicted them of fixing a "trifecta."

New York City, a community of granite buildings and hearts, has tried legal off-track betting. It put 3,000 people to work and did over $700 million in business. In Nevada, the gambling business took in $1.4 billion.

In Illinois, the state took $65 million clear profit from legalized gambling. Connecticut earned $16 million in profit, and started a new game designed to help schools in the poorer districts.

The most potent argument against legalized gambling is that it makes victims of the poor. The poverty stricken will bet in hopes that they will be rich. This argument is valid only if you don't believe that the poor will gamble whether it is legal or illegal.

Some time ago, I had an Aunt Mary, stout and witless, who won $500 in a Catholic bingo game. Nothing I said could convince her that she was lucky; that it could not happen again. I had a mother-in-law who believed that bingo was God's grace to the poor.

In sum, I believe that there is no way of stopping gamblers from gambling. Everybody wants something for nothing. It doesn't matter whether it depends on the spin of the wheel, the roll of the dice, or the oranges on a slot machine.

New York wants state-operated gambling casinos now. Their Governor Carey waits to listen to the will of the people. Gamblers will vote for gambling; bookies will not.

It doesn't matter whether casino gambling is a matter of morality or immorality. The forces against it are strong and immutable. It cannot win in Florida; it may succeed in New York.

Between the previous paragraph and this one, I phoned a friendly bookie in New York. He is willing to give me 75-to-1 that there will be no casinos in New York...

Armies On Edge Of War

WASHINGTON — Armies and navies, some of them armed with hydrogen-headed missiles, are poised on the edge of war in the Middle East, on the African continent and along the Russian-Chinese border.

We have studied intelligence reports and interviewed top defense officials to determine the prospects for war or peace. Here is our assessment:

-- MIDDLE EAST: Senior military officials describe the Middle East as a "boiling cauldron" and a "witches' brew" where "anything can happen." They also fear, in the words of one high official, that the situation "will get worse before it gets better."

Part of the problem is that the orthodox power struggles — Arab vs. Jew, Christian vs. Moslem, pro-Soviet vs. pro-American — have become blurred by the politics of chaos.

The most explosive spot, of course, is Lebanon which is in the grip of anarchy. Intelligence reports indicate the situation is "out of control" of anyone, including the Syrian forces on the scene.

-- AFRICA: Despite the Soviet-Cuban success in Angola, U.S. strategists regard the triumph as a "very short-term gain." The appearance of Soviet-backed Cuban forces in Angola, according to a Pentagon assessment, has upset such African nations as Tanzania, Uganda, Zaire and Zambia.

These young nations were far from pro-American, but the Soviet-Cuban incursion on the African continent has helped to break down age-old antagonisms and to unite these nations against the Communist threat.

There has also been a beneficial effect for the United States in South America. The intervention of a Cuban expeditionary force in faraway Angola "has scared the pants off" Fidel Castro's Latin American neighbors, said one Pentagon strategist.

Latin American nations are painfully aware that, if Castro's troops can fight on the African continent, they could more easily move against any nation in South America. Many Latins fear Castro "is practicing" in Africa for adventures in South America, according to Pentagon planners.

The result has been to make South American governments more dependent upon the United States for protection. This was a subject that Secretary of State Henry Kissinger discussed with Latin leaders on his recent South American tour, say our sources.

-- ASIA: Intelligence reports claim that the Soviets now have approximately 25 per cent of their available combat ground and tactical forces dug in along the cold, barren Russian-Chinese border.

This has caused concern in the Pentagon whose military strategists still consider Russia, not China, to be the greater threat to the United States.

WATCH ON WASTE: The Social Security Administration, whose dwindling trust funds are already threatened with bankruptcy, plans to construct a $69 million computer center that isn't needed.

Confidential audits, now in our possession, show that Social Security already has installed advanced computer systems "far in excess of its needs."

According to a recent investigation conducted by the General Accounting Office, the agency's present computers are easily capable of supporting more than twice the current workload.

The government auditors discovered, to their astonishment, that even on the busiest days the computers were utilized an average of 25 per cent below capacity.

Yet in spite of these findings, Social Security is going ahead with plans to expand its computer system. The proposed $69 million computer center is only part of the money the agency wants to siphon from its trust funds.

Already, it is constructing a $2.3 million addition to its present computer facilities. Four huge computers will also be installed in November at a cost of $25 million.

To top it all, the agency would like to overhaul its computer operations at an estimated grand cost of $400 million to $500 million.

The GAO auditors found problems at the agency's data processing center, all right, but concluded these were organizational and personnel problems.

"We do not believe that the way to solve these problems is to add more equipment," declared the GAO report. "On the contrary, reduction of the number of systems could help to ease the management problem."

Social Security contends that its existing facilities are out-of-date, that a complete "top to bottom" overhaul is necessary to continue uninterrupted delivery of Social Security checks, that the GAO conclusions are based on an inadequate survey and that a Boeing Co. study shows that the GAO findings hinge on inconclusive data.

Footnote: Rep. Charles Vanick, D.-Ohio, chairman of the powerful House Ways and Means oversight subcommittee, has written the Social Security commissioner a fiery letter calling upon him to "immediately suspend" the expansion of the computer facilities. Our congressional sources say hearings probably will be held to back up Vanick's demand.

EVACUATION

Suspicions Hint Ford Acted Politically

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford's order for a naval evacuation of Americans from Lebanon last weekend prompted speculation in some Washington circles that he might have had domestic political considerations in mind.

The suspicions were inspired partly by Ford's long struggle to defeat Ronald Reagan for the Republican presidential nomination in a campaign that has seen Reagan repeatedly accuse the administration of failing to stand up to foreign policy challenges.

But when reporters questioned whether Ford had political motives and wanted to appear "presidential" in the critical days before the GOP convention in Kansas City, White House aides vigorously assured them the battle with Reagan was not a factor in the evacuation decision.

At one point, Press Secretary Ron Nessen responded by saying: "I am going to decline to talk about this operation in any way that links it with American politics."

Asked why not, he said, "Because there is no link."

Late last week, when Ford still was assessing the Lebanon situation with top advisers, Nessen hinted that the President was moved to order the evacuation by circumstances that could not be revealed at the time.

Other White House officials said privately that Ford wanted aides to dispel any doubts about the reasons for his decision — -for fear they could serve to undercut his trust with the public and provide Reagan with ammunition for new attacks on administration foreign policy.

In defending the timing of Ford's decision, Nessen and other aides emphasized that it was made more urgent by the June 16 murder in Beirut of Ambassador Francis E. Meloy Jr. and Robert O. Waring, an economic attache at the U.S. embassy.

Moreover, they noted the United States was the last major nation to evacuate its nationals from Lebanon.

But it wasn't the timing that triggered speculation about Ford's actions.

Some American news commentators and even Israel's biggest afternoon newspaper questioned all the publicity given Ford's actions, a need to use a Navy rescue ship, and a general impression that the evacuation would be risky enough to warrant major credit for the President if all went well.

The skeptics wondered about the surprise White House announcement Friday that the President was canceling a political trip to Iowa because of conditions in Lebanon and meetings he called later in a crisis-like atmosphere as officials spoke of hundreds of people who would be escorted out of the war-torn country.

After deciding on his policy Saturday, Ford stayed up most of the night to monitor "Operation Fluid Drive" before issuing a formal written statement to hail its success.

It soon was reported only 116 Americans chose to be evacuated from Lebanon and that security for their departure by sea had been promised indirectly by the Palestinian Liberation Organization, although the United States does not recognize the PLO and would anger Israel by having direct contacts with the PLO.

After the ease with which the evacuation was carried out, Nessen and other White House aides were unable or unwilling to say what made the operation so complicated that Ford had to devote virtually all his attention to it.

When reporters questioned whether Ford was so busy making decisions at the White House that he had to forego his trip to Iowa, where precious GOP convention delegates were being chosen, Nessen replied: "I am not sure that is important. The fact is that he was here where he could deal with developments as they occurred."

Pontiff Condemns Abort, Mercy Death

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI has condemned abortion and mercy killing in a Bicentennial message calling on American Catholics to preserve their moral principles and become "a beacon of light... to the world."

In a letter to the American clergy on Thursday, the Pope said: "We assure you that we are one with you and all American citizens of good will in facing the special dangers to your country and society from abortion and euthanasia.

"We would repeat with insistence that the rights of minorities call out for protection as do the rights of the poor, the handicapped, the incurable ill and all those who live at the margin of society and are without voice. Above all the precious right to life must be affirmed anew."

"If all Catholics and people of good will were united in those sound moral principles formulated by your Founding Fathers and enshrined forever in your history, what a beacon of light America would be for the world," the Pope said.

The letter, which was primarily religious in tone, was sent to the National Conference of Catholic Bishops meeting in Washington. "Also of great importance," the Pope said, "are the endeavors to control narcotic abuse wherever it is found."

Cairo-Baghdad Deal Seen in Iraq Border Move

CAIRO (UPI) — Diplomatic sources believe Iraq's decision to mass troops on the Syrian frontier to harass Syria's invasion of Lebanon was made in agreement with Egypt.

Egypt and Iraq, long at loggerheads on many aspects of Arab policy, find themselves united in opposition to Syria's action in Lebanon.

In a statement that diplomats believed virtually confirmed Iraqi-Egyptian collusion, Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmi told parliament June 14 the Iraqi troop shift was "a studied and calculated move that involves no danger and is designed to calm the situation."

Forget The Past

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia (UPI) — It will be a let-bygones-be-bygone approach at the June 23 reconciliation meeting here between Prime Minister Mamdouh Salem of Egypt and Mahmoud Al-Ayyoubi of Syria.

As mediators Saudi Arabia and Kuwait have planned it, Syria will not make an issue of Egypt's second Sinai interim peace pact with Israel last September which caused the Cairo-Damascus rift. On the other hand, Egypt will not take Syria to task for its invasion of Lebanon.

The central theme will be: How can Egypt and Syria proceed together toward solving the biggest problem of all in the Middle East — the conflict with Israel.

Zarb And Oil

CAIRO (UPI) — America's energy king Frank Zarb did some prospecting for oil information during a quick trip to Egypt, which this year began exporting petroleum.

"His visit was strictly for information," a U.S. official said of the stopover. Zarb, U.S. Federal Energy Agency administrator with cabinet rank, was invited by Oil Minister Ahmed Hilal, but Hilal had to fly to Iran and the two men did not meet.

The official said Zarb met with several undersecretaries and learned of Egypt's production goal of 50 million tons of oil a year by 1980, current explogation moves involving two dozen U.S. firms, a few recent bonanzas and exporting agreements.

Zarb also took time out to study the Giza pyramids and ride a camel.

NEW PALTZ — Mrs. Elsie Lorenzo, an elected state delegate representing Ulster County Chapter 975, American Association of Retired Persons, recently returned from the 1976 national AARP convention in Miami, Fla.

The four-day convention was held at the Bal Harbour Americana Hotel, where more than 2,000 delegates heard U. S. Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield and NBC television personality Hugh Downs speak. Other highlights included the Dr. Percy Andrus Memorial Dinner in honor of the AARP founder; the installation of Mrs. Alice Vandingham of West Virginia as the new AARP president; and a filmed progress report to the convention by AARP Executive Director Harriet Miller.

Delegates also participated in a series of workshops dealing with legislative involvement and community service activities.

Two tulip trees, a red maple and a plum tree donated by the Ulster County chapter in commemoration of the Bicentennial were planted recently in the New Paltz Stone House area.

To avoid a conflict with the July 4 holiday, the chapter's next meeting will be held at 1:30 p.m. Monday, July 12, at the VFW Building, Route 208, New Paltz. Peter Harp, a New Paltz attorney, will speak on taxes. Blood pressures will be taken for interested persons from 12:15 to 1:15 p.m. prior to the meeting.

The chapter's monthly Dutch treat dinner will be held at 1:30 p.m. Sunday, July 18, at the 1776 Restaurant on Brunswyck Road between Wallkill and Plattekill. Mrs. Berta Ale of New Paltz is in charge.

Port Ewen's Championship Cowboy and New Bride Star in Rodeo

Life

Mike Waters Wrestles Rambunctious Steer

Billy Ruth Waters Rounds A Curve

KINGSTON —Port Ewen's championship cowboy Mike Waters is riding into town today with his new bride, Billy Ruth, "Miss Rodeo USA. 1975" to put on a show worthy of the $50,000 a year he earns on the road.

Mike and Billy Ruth Waters are among the stars of the Bicentennial Edition of the Star Spangled Rodeo to be held today through Sunday at Dietz Stadium for the benefit of the Ulster County Democratic Committee.

Waters, who resided with Cliff and Nora Every in the late 60's and early 70's, used to work out the horses at their Port Ewen residence and rode the rodeo circuit, something he has been doing since the age of 14 when he left his Chicago home and joined a wild west show.

Today he not only exercises the horses and feeds them vitamins, but he does the same for himself, believing that daily pushups will keep him in good shape for many years to come.

And being is good shape is a prime requisite for any cowboy who does bulldogging. Wrestling a steer can get you more than prize money, it can get you a broken hand like the one Waters sustained when he was only 11 points or $11 away from the national championship.

Being runnerup to the national champion has its merits however. Just last week Waters competed in six rodeos in six states, earing $2,500. The 25-year-old cowboy will compete in about 150 competitions this year and his wife will accompany him to most of them, competing herself in cowgirl barrel racing, a fairly new and competitive event which is gaining in popularity.

Billy Ruth Waters, 22, a university physical education graduate, thinks barrel racing fills a need for wives of rodeo cowboys who prefer to participate than "sit around the bleachers watching all day."

Although the Waters have a new house in Linden, Texas, they have only spent four nights in it since they were married two months ago. But, rodeos will be held closer to home during the winter 8 months and they plan to take advantage of the Texas sunshine then.

But for now, the lure of the big money is great and Waters averages three to four rodeos a weekend, flying from one to another while his wife often travels with the horses on the road.

They plan "good wholesome entertainment" at the Kingston rodeo, pointing out that it is one of the few places left providing clean entertainment for the whole family.

Sharing the bill with the Waters will be Cowboy Joe Phillips, the fastest gun in the country, Billy "Foggy" Porter, one of a number of clowns and the Barringer sisters from Honolulu, Hawaii, trick riders.

Shows will begin at 8 o'clock tonight, 2 and 8 p.m., Saturday and 2 p.m. Sunday. Special prices are available for children's and senior citizen's tickets.

TWO SOUTH AMERICAN LLAMAS attract two early fairgoers at Saratoga The 10-day event was officially opened this morning at the Saratoga Race Course

Saratoga Fair Opened Today; Host of Headliners Booked

SARATOGA SPRINGS—The ribbon was cut at the main gate this morning heralding the opening of the third annual Saratoga Fair, and the first of an estimated 300,000 persons entered the fairgrounds for the 10 day event which runs through Sunday, July 4. Popular and country music will be featured this weekend during the free grandstand shows at 6:30 and 8:30 p.m.

The Fifth Dimension will open the fair this evening. Just celebrating its 20th anniversary, the group has recently changed, adding two new members: Danny Bear who has appeared in several Broadway productions as well as "Bubbling Brown Sugar;" and Marjorie Barnes who credits a starring role in the Broadway production of the "Magic Show." The Fifth Dimension has 14 gold records to its credit.

Anson "Potsie Weber" Williams of tne popular television hit series, "Happy Days," follows on Saturday. The accent will be on country music Sunday with recording star Donna Fargo appearing.

Williams, a versatile 26-year-old entertainer has recorded six tunes for the show, "Happy Days." Williams has performed on the MERV Griffin Television Show.

Country music singer Donna Fargo returns to the Saratoga Fair for the second time Sunday. She has numerous country singing awards including a Grammy Award for the "Best Country Vocal Performance" and "Best Single of the Year" plus four awards from the Academy of Country Music. Her first recording for Dot Records, "Happiest Girl in the Whole USA" was an immediate success on both the country and pop radio stations.

In addition to the, nightly entertainment package, the fair features a giant midway, rodeo, animal rides, hundreds of commercial exhibits and free attractions.

Daily admission prices are $3.50 for adults; $1.50 for children under 12. Parking is $1. Gates open Monday through Saturday at 10 a.m. and on Sunday at 1:05 p.m. Fairgrounds remain open until 11:30 p.m. daily.

Weekend

Top Entertainment Headed for SPAC

SARATOGA SPRINGS—Saratoga Performing Arts Center has three top programs booked for the weekend: Harry Chapin, Saturday, 7 p.m.; Neil Sedaka, Sunday, 8.15 p.m.; and B.B. King joined by Les Paul, Monday, 8:15 p.m.

When the nation's next anniversary rolls around in the year 2076, people may look upon Harry Chapin as an historian who accurately documented the mood of our times. He uses lyrics to tell stories, not merely to evoke a mood His first big hit, "Taxi" told of a disillusioned cabbie whose well-dressed fare turns out to be an old flame... equally unhappy, but rich enough not to worry about it. Chapin's next big single, "W-O-L-D" was a bittersweet view of the AM radio world, "Cat's in the Cradle," encapsulated an entire lifetime into one song.

The son of a big-band-era drummer, he was raised in Greenwich Village. He sang in the Brooklyn Heights Boys Choir along with Robert Lamm, now a mainstay in the rock-jazz group, Chicago. After a stint at the Air Force Academy, Chapin studied architecture and philosophy at Cornell. He entered a career making film documentaries and was good enough to win an Academy Award nomination.

Of all the comebacks in show business history, few have been more complete than that of singer-songwriter-pianist Neil Sedaka. During the past 11 months, two albums and a single have reached gold status. His "Love Will Keep Us Together," recorded by the Captain and Tennille, was one of the most successful songs of 1975.

A piano prodigy from the age of eight, Sedaka studied classical music for 10 years, attending both the prep and college departments of New York's Juilliard School of Music. Pop music caught his ear and he began writing songs at age 13. His first hit was "Stupid Cupid" recorded by Connie Francis. Sedaka's first stardom lasted from 1959 to 1963 during which time he sold more than 25 million hits.

In an evening of music tailor-made for guitar enthusiasts, B.B. King will be joined by Les Paul, Monday night. While B.B. King has earned a considerable following among young blues fans, Les Paul may best be known to an older generation who remember the innovative overdubbing technique in the late 40's and early 50's. It was Paul's technique that made the sound of Les Paul and Mary Ford unique.

Les Paul is also responsible for the development of the first eight-track recorder and amplifier pick-up system for drums. Born in Waukesha, Wis., in 1915, he started in the music business playing harmonica when he was 13. Prior to World War II he moved to California and formed the Les Paul Trio, which played leading radio shows and recordings for Bing Crosby, Andrews Sisters and Dick Haymes. While in New Jersey, he decided to put an idea of his to test; making records by playing all the parts himself. He built his own studio and became his own engineer.

Dear Abby

Daughters' Diet Regime Is Dangerous

DEAR ABBY I have two daughters 16 and 19 who eat like stevedores, then force themselves to up-chuck so they can eat again without gaining any weight They also take a lot of laxatives for the same reason

About a year ago they were both overweight and went on a diet I thought was sensible at the time But after they got skinny they started with the throwing up business and laxatives to stay thin

I have tried to tell them they are ruining their stomachs, but they won't listen to me They are both underweight now and think they look wonderful They look sick to me

I am beginning to think there is something more wrong with these girls than just the determination to be thin Would a psychiatrist help?—WORRIED MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Yes, a psychiatrist would help The condition from which your daughters are suffering is well-known to the medical profession I urge you to get the girls into therapy as soon as possible

DEAR ABBY I was glad to see that letter in your column from the husband who was completely turned off sex since watching the birth of his child

It just bears out what I've always maintained when one's husband witnesses such an event it's the end of the romance!

No one could ever persuade me to allow my husband in the delivery room I agree with the writer, it's a sickening and revolting affair, but unfortunately that's the way all babies come into the world, so we just have to put up with it

Just the same, I think it's ridiculous to try to make a "beautiful and fulfilling experience" out of something that is clearly ugly

I say, for goodness' sake, keep the husband OUT and away from the scene of birth if you want to keep romance IN your marriage

I love my children, but I loathe the birth process — —MOTHER OF TWO (TORONTO)

DEAR MOTHER: I've never regarded the birth process as "sickening and revolting," but ugliness—like beauty—lies in the eye of the beholder So to each his own

DEAR ABBY You were much too soft on smokers when you said "Don't give the back of your hand to those who have to recognize the hazard of their habit or are unable (or unwilling) to give it up"

Abby, the air pollution generated by smokers has too long been tolerated by nonsmokers, whether out of timidity, ignorance or lifelong training There is now ample evidence that tobacco smoke is just as injurious to the health of exposed nonsmokers as it is to that of smokers Furthermore, it stinks, clings to clothing, hair and upholstery, and fogs windows

You can bet your syndication that I don t permit people to smoke in my home or car!—W H VAN DEN BERG

DEAR VAN: I am hearing from an increasing number of readers who say they have finally gathered the guts to tell their guests that if they must smoke,

Gene Wilder..the Hidden Element

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Gene Wilder's pale blue eyes crackle with a fine madness even as he plays a rational character in a new adventure movie.

He ran a hand through his unruly red hair and mused about the departure from his usual zany roles between takes of "The Silver Streak."

"This time I'm playing a sane man in crazy circumstances," he said. "I'm finally getting enough of the Errol Flynn syndrome to satisfy me."

Wilder established his brand of eerie humor in "Willy Wonka and the Chocolate Factory" and attained stardom as the wacky Waco Kid in "Blazing Saddles," the weirdo "Young Frankenstein" and as the freaky sibling in "The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes' Smarter Brother."

Actor Wilder is as delightu lly off center in person as he is on the screen.

He treasures his cockeyed view of the world which he admits is out of kilter with the rest of mankind.

As a writer and director, Wilder reflects the hidden element of madness in all men.

"It's a quality everyone can identify with," he said, gazing into the middle distance.

"I love to play characters who are unaware of what they are doing and the consequences they suffer as a result. The secret is to play a driven man in the midst of circumstances that are almost beyond his control.

"I play crazy by making believe I'm sane. But once in a while a lighting bolt of madness slips out and I have to cover my tracks. It's a little crack in the psyche that shows itself under pressure."

Wilder manages to invest his screen characterizations with a delicate brand of insanity no writer can capture on paper He grinned slyly and added, "There's a strain of insanity in all of us. The audience subconsciously identifies with that. Most people conceal their touch of madness and deal with it But they love to see someone who misses.

"As children and even into adulthood we do crazy things. But after having our hands slapped enough we learn to conform and quell mad impulses.

"As an actor I don't tamper with natural behavior or I'd kill the impulses.

"An actor is more than an emotional athlete. At least in my case. I'm not content to get a gold star just to execute what the director tells me to do. The content of a film is equal to or more important than the form.

"So I write mostly from my fantasies and exorcise a lot of personal demons and impulses. The characters I create are not straight, they have kinks and cracks and hairpin turns.

"Some actors find security in trusting a director with a script they like. I find my security in creativity of the writing and directing myself."

Wilder is something of a throwback wrto Chrarlie Chaplin, Harold Lloyd, and Stan Laurel in his desire to fix his style personally by writing for himself.

He would like to establish an identity but not at the cost of restricting himself to one particular characterization. "I'm not looking for a symbol like a hat or a funny walk," he explained.

"When I'm not writing my own material I want to play Cary Grant, a killer or 'MacBeth' — things I've been trained and equipped to do since I began studying at the age of 13."

Bolshoi Ballet In 200th TV Salute

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Bolshoi Ballet performance of "Romeo and Juliet" has all the grandeur and theatricality of a Cecil B. DeMille production with a cast of thousands.

It is big, beautiful, colorful. This is ballet theater, not just dance, and it is performed almost as mime set to music. The sets have a misty gorgeousness, the corps de ballet is enormous — in some scenes more than 100 dancers are on stage, all costumed to catch the eye in what become might be called production numbers in an American musical.

"Romeo and Juliet" will be aired on CBS Sunday, 8-10 p.m., celebrating a Bicentennial of its own — the Bolshoi was founded in 1776.

The credits are international. It is based on "Romeo and Juliet," by that English writer, William Shakespeare. The music is by Russian composer Sergei Prokofiev. It was taped at Moscow's Bolshoi Theater, produced by the U.S.S.R. State Committee for Radio and Television, in association with Teleglob AG (German) and the British Broadcasting Corp.

Executive producer Lothar Bock is German, director John Vernon is British, and guest hostess is Mary Tyler Moore.

Miss Moore introduces the ballet and gives very brief plot summaries before each act.

The lead dancers are Natalja Bessmertnova as Juliet and Michail Lavrovsky as Romeo, and they are splendid. Bessmertnova wafts across the stage, whirling, leaping, stretching with almost boneless grace. Lavrovsky is another example of Russian artistry among male dancers.

The television camera gives ballet a new dimension. Television ordinarily is a medium of tight shots and closeups. Here the camera must sometimes back off, either to take in the almost panoramic town square of Verona filled with twirling, milling dancers, or because it just can't move quickly and smoothly enough to show Bessmertnova's flight across her bedroom in despair at her parents' insistence she marry Paris.

The camera can come in close, too, to bring the audience details that it would never catch even from the best theater seats. Bessmertnova's hands, for example, are almost separate entities, performing a dance of their own.

Among the loveliest scenes is the one in which Romeo discovers Juliet unconscious — dead, he believes — and dances with her still body.

The televised Bolshoi "Romeo and Juliet" has pomp and pageanty, beautiful music imperfectly delivered by television's inadequate audio capability, and splendid dancers.

Standard Pensions

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A management consultant says the day is here to require industry to provide pensions for employes just as they are required to provide a minimum wage. Preston C. Bassett, vice president of Towers, Perrin, Forster and Crosby, says providing private retirement benefits would "alleviate the burden" of current Social Security payments and would provide an employe with an "adequate (rather than) minimum" standard of living on his retirement.

Main Show?

It wasn't a leg-slapping joke, but with a little work, the ad-libbed scene someday might be included in the main show at the Second City, a Chicago theater which has become the training ground for America's top young comedy talent Catherine O'Hara, a 22—year—old one—time Second City waitress, performs in the 300—seat theater which turns in a modest profit (UPI)

The Man Who Gave Drama a Home

LONDON (UPI) — Exactly 400 years ago this year a former carpenter named James Burbage badgered his brother-in-law for a loan, and the world has not been the same since.

Burbage used the money to build a theater. It was the first permanent, professional playhouse, and Broadway, London's West End and all of today's theaters have their roots in it.

"James Burbage," wrote Cambridge scholar M.C. Bradbrook, "may claim to have founded the English stage by his building of the first theater." From then on drama had a home.

Plays and open-air acting arenas go back to ancient Greece and beyond, but acting was a vagabond game before Burbage came along.

Centuries of church-based morality plays and trade-guild pageants spawned companies of actors who wandered from inn courtyard to great houses, from fairs to open streets, playing to any audience they could find. Burbage gave up his tools to join this life.

But in 1576 he had his great idea. With his brother-in-law's money he leased a plot in Shoreditch, just outside London's city walls, and put up a building he called "The Theater."

A country boy in his 30s named William Shakespeare soon joined it to learn his trade. Burbage's building touched off an explosion which, with Shakespeare at its heart, became the greatest theatrical period ever known.

Yet of The Theater itself or the many other theaters which quickly followed it we know next to nothing.

Not a stick or stone remains. Oliver Cromwell's Puritans closed all surviving theaters in 1642, and the only direct evidence left is some panoramic drawings of London, two building contracts and one badly drawn second-hand sketch of an interior scene.

The women's group of St John's Episcopal Church in Kingston raised over $3,000 to buy an infant ventilator for community use Dr Kurken V. Kirk demonstrated the ventilator, now in service at Kingston Hospital to (l to r) Miss Mary Finger, assistant administrator at the hospital; Mrs Peter Somervell; Mrs James Barba, chairman of the infant ventilator fund; and Mrs Charlotte Nerone, who works in the hospital's nursery. Safe Boating Week Observed Locally

KINGSTON — The local Coast Guard Auxiliary will help observe National Safe Boating Week, scheduled this year to run from July 4 to 10.

The U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary Flotilla 20-4, Kingston, pointed out this week that, all too often, a pleasant cruise with family or friends ends in tragedy. Some boatmen fail to teach their families to swim, others have not properly equipped their craft with life preservers and other protective devices, and some fail to instruct passengers on the use of those devices prior to a cruise.

Every year, said the local Auxiliary, more than 1,000 lives are lost in boating accidents. The Auxiliary, a civilian non-military affiliate of the Coast Guard, said fatalities can be reduced and boating made more pleasurable if pleasure boaters emphasize boating safety rules.

As a local observance of National Safe Boating Week, the Auxiliary will have qualified examiners at all local marinas and boat clubs this Saturday and Sunday, to inspect all boats for federal and Coast Guard safety requirements.

The examination is free and Auxiliary examiners may be contacted at Hidden Harbor, Port Ewen; Kingston Power Boat, Abeel Street; Roberti's Boat Basin, Eddyville; Kingston Marina, Connelly; Saugerties Boat Club, Saugerties; and Magnolia Marina (formerly Dwyer's), Kingston.

A special decal will be awarded to boats meeting minimum Federal requirements and certain additional safety features recommended by the Auxiliary.

Bikers Making Charity Run

KINGSTON — A Bicentennial motorcycle tour to benefit the National Hemophilia Foundation will be held this weekend in conjunction with the three-day Bicentennial Barge Festival.

Participating cyclists will leave Yonkers at 1 p.m. Saturday and be met at the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge by members of the Ulster County Sheriff's Department.

They will be escorted to the Thruway traffic circle, where Kingston Police officers will join them for the ride to the old Senate House.

The motorcyclists will present a key to the city of Yonkers to Kingston Mayor Francis Koenig.

Saturday night, the riders will camp out at Hidden Valley Lake and participate in a road rally the next day.

Registration fee for the event is $12, and for the Sunday rally only is $4. All proceeds will be donated to the National Hemophilia Foundation.

Home Course Favors Randall . . . but Don't Forget A.J.

KINGSTON — When the Ulster County Amateur Golf Championship resumes Saturday for the third round at the Wiltwyck Golf Club, the home course advantage will be one of the reasons Leon Randall will retain the favorite's role...even though he trails the tourney's co-leaders by one stroke.

But one of those co-leaders, A.J. Maneen, will also be working on his home course, and he's not ready to concede a thing to the defending champion.

After 36 holes at Woodstock and Rondout, Maneen is tied with Shawangunk's Jon Berger at four-over-par 146. Randall, who slipped to a 79 in the second round, is at 147. That trio heads the remaining field of 27 which will conclude the 72-hole tournament Sunday at Twaalfskill.

What Maneen displayed during his high school career could best be described as potential. What he has shown through the first half of the Herdegen is the most consistent golf of any of the competitors.

Maneen feels a year of collegiate experience has done much for his game. "Jacksonville helped me," he said, "I don't throw away shots like I used to. I used to think I could make them up, but you can't do that. I'm thinking better now."

That improved mental attitude also includes a new perspective on the competition. Maneen ran into plenty of good players in Florida. Now, "everybody here doesn't seem as good as the players down south." Then he added, "Everybody here thinks Randall's unbeatable," but he excluded himself from that catagory.

Maneen's best round at Wiltwyck this year is a 74. If he can repeat that the expected Randall runaway will have to wait at least one more day. It might have to wait anyway.

Berger, who used to play against Maneen in high school, has shown no signs of faltering either. He and Randall have the only two sub-par rounds of the tournament so far, and at Rondout he bounced back strongly after a front nine that could have cost him the lead.

Wiltwyck, the only 18 hole layout in this year's tournament, could even serve up some surprises come Saturday evening. The numbers are tight at the top—Vlad Hoyt at 149, Frank Muller and Mike Bruhn at 150, Joe Modica, Bill Odeneal and Vic Hake all at 151—and any of those players could easily move up.

It is Randall, though, who still holds the key to the Herdegen. For him, the weekend's schedule is a custom made homestretch. In 20 tournament rounds at Wiltwyck he has averaged 75. At Twaalfskill is he even money to break 70. His goal for the first two rounds was to get himself in position for the second two. At one stroke off the pace, he has certainly done that.

The Amateur's bonus prizes, Woodstock Open berths to the low 12 finishers, are still up for grabs. The 27 competitors are separated by a total of just 13 strokes.

CHIP SHOTS...Radio station WKNY (1490) will broadcast Sunday's final round at Twaalfskill...Herdegen scoreboard duties will return to able hands of M. Leslie "Ben" Denning for tourney wrapup...Maneen considering transfer to Georgia. Seems facilities at Jacksonville include just par-three course...23 players who missed cut last weekend lost exemption from next year's Amateur... Casualties included John Bouymaster, just out at 160. He was runnerup to Randall in '75...Biggest score spread among finalists for first two rounds is 11 strokes. Steve Van Tassel went 74 to 85 and Randall went 68 to 79...

Doyle's Perfect Night Turns Sour

NEW YORK (UPI) — It was the heat and not the pressure which led to Doyle Alexander's losing his bid for a perfect game—and almost losing the game for the New York Yankees as well.

The 24-year old Alexander, acquired in a 10-player deal with the Baltimore Orioles 10 days ago, pitched a perfect game for seven innings Thursday night and then had it blow up in his face when the Cleveland Indians scored four runs in the eighth inning.

The Yankees went on to win 6-5 but Alexander had long since been relieved by Sparky Lyle when Mickey Rivers' infield hit, his fourth hit of the game, drove in the winning run in the ninth inning.

"It was a little tough out there," explained Alexander, referring to the heat. "I was getting tired and when I do, my ball starts to rise. I have to keep the ball low to be effective."

Rico Carty broke up the perfect game with a single in the eighth and before the inning was over, the Indians had scored four runs with the help of a two-run homer by Alan Ashby and sent Alexander to the showers. Cleveland tied the score 5-5 in the top of the ninth on Carty's two-out homer off Lyle but the Yankees won it in the bottom of the inning against Dave LaRoche.

"A pitcher knows he is pitching a perfect game because he is never pitching from the stretch position," said Alexander. "I felt I wanted it but what can you do? Until the eighth inning, it was the best game I've ever pitched in the majors although I've had a nohitter broken up in the minors.

"Carty hit a good pitch but it went up the middle. Boog Powell's hit came on a ball that didn't drop enough."

Rivers' game-winning hit came after Graig Nettles led off the ninth with a walk and was forced at second by Oscar Gamble. Willie Randolph doubled past third, sending Gamble to third and pinch-hitter Elliott Maddox walked. Lou Piniella struck out before Rivers delivered his hit.

★★★

In a season which has reaped at least one hot-shot rookie for almost every American League city, the Detroit Tigers are grateful for getting two—Jason Thompson and Mark "Big Bird" Fidrych.

"I can't remember a year in which so many good rookies have come into the league at one time," said Tigers Manager Ralph Houk in reference to Willie Randolph, Butch Wynegar, Chet Lemon, Tom Poquette and Paul Hartzell among others.

Actually, it was last season which Houk calls the Tigers' "rebuilding year" when they force fed a half-dozen youngsters onto their roster. But if weren't for Thompson and Fidrych, the year after the "rebuilding" might very have been a washout.

Thompson and Fidrych teamed up again Thursday night in helping Detroit defeat the Boston Red Sox 6-3. Thompson, a power hitting first baseman one year removed from college, slugged a two-run homer, while Fidrych, the eccentric right-hander who is nicknamed "Big Bird" after the "Sesame Street" television character, hurled his seventh complete game.

"Right now this is a dream and I don't want to spoil it by thinking about the future," said the 21-year old Fidrych, who had only one rough inning in upping his record to 7-1. In the fourth the Red Sox scored all three runs, two of them on solo homers by Carl Yastrzemski and Fred Lynn.

"I lost my concentration in that inning," Fidrych admitted, "and before I knew it, it was 'Rocket City'"

Thompson, also 21, stroked hhiiee his ninth homer to key a three-run sixth for the Tigers which made the score 4-3. The 2-for-3 night at the plate lifted his average to .247 with 31 RBIs and gave further proof that he's successfully conquered a bad slump of two weeks back.

"All I'm doing now is spreading my legs a little farther apart," said Thompson. "That way I can wait on pitches better I know if I make good contact I have the strength to hit it out."

Added Houk: "He's the first guy we've had at first base to hit with power since Norm Cash."

Elsewhere in the American League, Texas downed Kansas City 5-2, Minnesota beat Chicago 4-2 and Califronia shaded Oakland 2-1.

Rangers 5, Royals 2

Roy Howell and Mike Hargrove each singled home runs as the Rangers took advantage of numerous Kansas City mental miscues to hand the slumping Royals their sixth straight loss. The win enabled Texas to climb to within two games of first place Kansas City in the AL West. Steve Hargan, 2-2, went 5 2-3 innings for the win.

Twins 4, White Sox 2

Minnesota's Steve Braun singled and scored during a three-run third inning burst while Bill Singer, 6-3, hurled his second complete game to defeat Chicago. The game was delayed a total of one hour and 23 minutes by two rain stoppages.

Angels 2, A's 1

Bobby Bonds belted a two-run first inning homer and helped save the win for rookie Sid Monge with a pinpoint throw in the fourth that caught Oakland's Campy Campaneris at the plate. Bonds hit his ninth home run after the first of three singles by Dave Collins. He threw out Campaneris after the A's shortstop tripled and tried to score on a flyout.

Bowie Must Deal With Reality of Present

NEW YORK (UPI) — Before turning his attention to the glory that was the past, Bowie Kuhn had to deal with the harsh reality of the present. The baseball commissioner had come to pay homage to the greats of yesterday, but first he had to take abuse from the heroes of today.

Thursday was supposed to be a day devoted to nostalgia, a trip down memory lane when the greatest moments in baseball history would be revealed during a gala luncheon.

But merely 15 minutes before he was due at the hotel near Central Park to make the announcements, Kuhn found himself on the phone with Vida Blue at the pitcher's home in Oakland and learned of another possible $10 million suit against baseball.

"Baseball's Most Memorable Moments," as the advance publicity referred to it, was brought to you by more than 100 years of ballgames. Kuhn's latest predicament came courtesy of Paul Corvino, a business consultant for Blue.

"This is the first time the commissioner has contacted Vida Blue personally and it has only been because of my urging," said Corvino, using the reception area of Kuhn's office for an impromptu news conference and some unkind words for his host.

"I think it is outrageous. Vida feels we should take legal action and we will if we don't get immediate action. We just can't stay in limbo."

Related story, column on page 17

Blue and Oakland teammates Rollie Fingers and Joe Rudi have been in limbo since last Friday when Kuhn, acting "in the best interests of baseball," voided their sales by A's owner Charlie Finley. Blue had been sold for $1.5 million to the New York Yankees and Fingers and Rudi were dealt to the Boston Red Sox for $1 million each.

Unfortunately, it is not in the best interests of Blue, Fingers and Rudi to be sitting around in the middle of a season without a team. And that is exactly where they're sitting inasmuch as Finley refuses to use the trio.

"I've been trying to evaluate all the facts and I spoke yesterday with Lee MacPhail (the American League president)," Corvino said. "It's just like an Alfred Hitchcock production. Everyone seems to be in the dark and no one is doing anything."

Blue and Corvino plan to do something this weekend. Blue, whom Corvino describes as being "a very depressed and upset young man," was due to fly here today and spend the weekend as a house guest of his consultant in the suburb of Scarsdale. They will be joined there by attorneys, who will analyze the situation and decide what they must do next.

"We're leaving all our options open," Corvino stated HWe have quite a few aces in the hole."

Corvino also has demanded the contract Blue signed on June 15, the day he was sold, be declared null and void. The agent said he questions the legality of the pact, which is believed to call for a half million dollars over three years, since Blue was in Oakland at the time and Finley was in Chicago and to his knowledge the A's boss never signed it.

Neither the baseball commissioner nor the American League office has received a copy of the contract, but Finley has 20 days from the date it was signed in which to deliver it.

Corvino thus feels that Blue's status be restored to what it was before he signed the contract, leaving him as an unsigned player who will become a free agent at season's end, or that Blue be declared a free agent now and be put on the open market.

In any event, there is a chance that a damage suit still will be filed on Blue's behalf because of the "mental anguish" he has suffered during the last week and the loss of production because of his forced layoff.

"Vida's very concerned that his arm will be out of shape when he returns to action and that his performance will suffer," Corvino said. "He's already missed about four rotations and who knows how many more he'll miss before he gets back."

Kuhn would speak of the matter for less than half a minute when he finally reached the luncheon, saying he agrees with MacPhail that the players should be put back into the A's lineup. He said he would have an announcement on their status by the end of the week.

Oh, yes, the winners of the Most Memorable Moment poll: Joe DiMaggio's 56-game hitting streak (American League), Henry Aaron's 715th home run (National League) and Don Larsen's perfect game in the World Series (glamor category).

Arthur Ashe Is Living In Shadows of Past

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — Arthur Ashe is living in the shadows of the past as he attempts to survive the blazing sun and his own erratic play for a successful defense of his Wimbledon championship.

After reaching the final 16 with a 7-5, 6-2, 8-6 victory over Australian Open champion Mark Edmondson, Ashe took to quoting former champions of this hallowed event.

First, Ashe recited Rod Laver to the press: "Any man can win Wimbledon once. Only a real champion can win it twice in a row."

Then, when asked if he felt confident of winning the tournament again this year, Ashe quoted Lew Hoad: HIf you can get to the second week of Wimbledon, it's anybody's ball game."

Finally, Ashe spoke some original lines: "I am playing a lot better now (thann earlier in the tournament). I'm serving a lot better. Court one is banked more than any other court at Wimbledon. If you have a wide service to either side, it's paradise."

Ashe, of course, has such a service.

The top-seeded Ashe never before had played husky 6-foot-2 Edmondson and said his opponent "walks around like a man possessed—caning everything."

But the Australian's inability to put his game together and Ashe's own much improved service made the difference.

Ashe then turned his attention to his next opponent, Vitas Gerulaitis, who reached the last 16 by eliminating another American, Steve Krulevitz.

"I've played him three times and always beaten him," Ashe said. "Twice it was close and once, at Forest Hills, not close. But Vitas is one of the best athletes on the tour."

Others who joined Ashe and seeded Jimmy Connors in the last 16 were third-seeded Ilie Nastase of Romania, 16th-seeded Stan Smith, fourthseeded Bjorn Borg, and Australia's Phil Dent, who pulled the first upset of the tournament by ousting ninth-seeded Tom Okker.

"This time," said the tempermental Nastase, "I have come to play tennis."

Chris Evert administered a humiliating 6-1, 6-0 beating to Australia's powerful Lesley Hunt to advance to the last 16 with the loss of only three games in three matches. She said she was pleased with the results but was hoping for a tough match soon "to see what my condition is like."

"I'll probably get it from Betty Stove in the next round," she said. "She's a big girl and strong and she and Virginia Wade are the hardest servers in women's tennis.

"I never let up today. I stayed in there. I didn't lose my concentration, which has been bothering me the past few months."

Among Friday's major contests will be the final set of the match between fifth-seeded Adriano Panatta of Italy and Charles Pasarell of Puerto Rico after feding light Thursday night forced postponement of the final set with the score tied at two sets apiece.

Panatta had a match point at 5-4 in the fourth set, but Pasarell served his way out of the jam.

Panatta and Pasarell are playing for a place in the last 16, which Friday's other matches will fill up. Raul Ramirez of Mexico, the eighth seed, meets Karl Meiler of West Germany, John Newcombe, the 10th-seed, plays Bernie Mitton of South Africa and sixth-seeded Guillermo Vilas plays Alex Metreveli of the Soviet Union.

Dickson Leads Western

OAK BROOK, Ill (UPI) — Bob Dickson wants to play golf "a day at a time" to hold on to his first-round lead in the $200,000 Western Open.

Dickson, 32, put together a four-under-par 67 in a steady drizzle at Butler National Golf Club Thursday for a two-stroke lead over 1971 Western champion Bruce Crampton and a three-stroke lead on George Burns and Charles Coody.

But he said, "I've had too many of these starts and then gone out the next day and didn't shoot too good. It's too early yet to get excited and I can build it up too much inside of me.

"It's a mental thing. I've had tournaments with two good rounds and two bad ones, or three good rounds and one bad one. Now I've got to put four good rounds together, so I'll take it a day at a time."

Dickson, keeping the ball in play and putting expertly, said he "capitalized on a few good breaks" in seizing the lead.

"I putted well, but I actually could have made a lot more putts. Still I'm pleased with a 67, particularly here."

Dickson, who hasn't won in three years, said one of his breaks came when his third-hole tee shot hit a tree and bounced back into the fairway to set up a birdie "when I could have gone to jail."

He sank birdie putts of 20 and 30 feet, saved a par once with another 20-footer and rimmed the cup from 20 feet and 50 feet on other birdie tries.

Crampton, an Australian who is one of golf's $1 million winners, said he had a "good solid round" in which he went over par only twice.

"I was in the rough a few times, but it was a pretty good round," he said.

A year ago on the same course, rain and lightning washed out the second round and forced cancellation of Saturday play, requiring a 36-hole final round on Monday.

Office's Streak Ends, but Braves' Goes On

By UPI

Rowland Office's 29-game hitting streak is a thing in the past but another statistic gives the Atlanta Braves hope for the future.

That's the Braves' 15-7 won-lost record for a .682 percentage—the best mark by any National League team during the month of June. It's a remarkable turnabout for a team that was going so bad a month ago that clubowner Ted Turner was offering the fans in Atlanta free admission until the Braves won a game.

Office, eight games shy of the NL mark of hitting in 37 consecutive games, set by Tommy Holmes of the Boston Braves in 1945, went 0-for-3 Thursday night in the Braves' 2-1 victory over the Montreal Expos. Office walked in his first at bat, bounced out twice and flied out.

"Sure I'd have liked to go on but it's no easy thing to do," said Office. "I was getting pretty about it. I feel a lot better now that it's over. Anyway, 29 is pretty good itself."

Dick Ruthven pitched a five-hitter for the Braves and raised his record to 9-6 while giving catcher Earl Williams, who caught knuckleballer Phil Niekro in Wednesday night's shutout, an easy night.

"Catching Ruthven was easier," said the big catcher. "At least I had an idea where the ball was going to be."

The Braves scored their runs in the second inning when Williams hit a two-run double after a single by Darrel Chaney and an error by shortstop Pepe Frias on a fielder's choice.

Philadelphia defeated Cincinnati 5-4, Los Angeles beat Houston 5-1, Chicago shaded Pittsburgh 2-1 in 13 innings and San Francisco topped San Diego 8-5 in the other National League games.

Phillies 5, Reds 4

Pinch-hitter Ollie Brown's seventh-inning single off Reds reliever Will McEnaney drove in the decisive run for the Phillies. Jim Kaat allowed four runs and nine hits in six innings but raised his record to 8-2 with the relief help of Ron Reed and Tug McGraw while Gary Nolan was the loser. Dick Allen and Garry Maddox homered for Philadelphia.

Dodgers 5, Astros 1

Ted Sizemore's two singles drove in three runs for the Dodgers as Tommy John won his fourth game. Charlie Hough, the Dodgers' No. 1 reliever with Mike Marshall gone to Atlanta, closed out the game with 1 2-3 innings of one-hit, shutout relief. Larry Dierker suffered his seventh loss against six wins for the Astros.

Cubs 2, Pirates 1

Jerry Morales, who earlier had hit two doubles, homered in the 13th to lift the Cubs over the Pirates. Oscar Zamora, who pitched one scoreless innings, received credit for his fifth victory while Rick Langford was the loser for the Pirates. Willie Stargell hit the 378th homer of his career for Pittsburgh.

Giants 8, Padres 5

Ken Reitz hit a single, double and triple to lead the 16-hit attack which carried the Giants over the Padres. Reitz scored two runs and drove in another. San Francisco clinched the victory with a six-run eighth inning. Willie McCovey homered for San Diego.

Prosecution Can't Find a Friendly Witness

TORONTO (UPI) — The prosecution in the Dan Maloney assault trial can't seem to find a witness who doesn't give a glowing character reference to the defendant.

On Thursday, the second day of the proceedings, it was Toronto Maple Leaf Coach Red Kelly's turn.

After telling prosecutor Robert McGee how he saw Maloney punch Leaf Brian Glennie, knock him to the ground and put him out of the game, Kelly was cross-examined by defense attorney George Finlayson.

Asked to characterize Maloney, Kelly said: "He's a tough, agressive, good hockey player. A good team man."

"If you want a winning team, you want people like Maloney on it?" Finlayson asked.

"You certainly do, he comes to play," Kelly replied.

The only other witness called Thursday, NFL Referee-inChief Scotty Morrison, also had high praise for Maloney.

"He's a physical hockey player, one that gives 100 per cent to the team for all 60 minutes of the game," Morrison said of the Detroit Red Wi · Star.

He said Maloney was not a dirty player, never penalized for swinging his stick at another player or butt-ending or spearing.

Both Kelly and Morrison testified before the eight-woman, four-man jury they believed Maloney was trying to provoke Glennie into a fist fight and not trying deliberately to injure him during the Nov. 5 game at Maple Leaf Gardens.

Yes, Davenport Will Be Back

EUGENE, Ore (UPI) — A year ago, after he hurt his knee in a race and had to be carried off on a stretcher, people were writing off Willie Davenport and who could blame them.

He was 32-years-old with a torn tendon in his left knee, but still talking about coming back. People simply nodded their heads in sympathy.

Thursday, in the falling shadows of a near perfect summer day and with a crowd of nearly 12,000 cheering him on, Davenport, who won a gold medal at the 1968 Olympics, responded like a champion and ran his heart out to finish second to Charles Foster in the 110 meter high hurdles and win his fourth Olympic berth.

"I told people I would be back last year," Davenport said. "I'm not the kind who likes to say I told you so, but here I am on my way to the Olympics again and I couldn't be happier."

Foster, coming back from a pulled hamstring suffered at the AAU Championships two weeks ago, won at the U.S. Trials here in a wind-aided 13.44, with Davenport clocking 13.52 and James Owens, who has had three broken left ankles during his college career, taking third in 13.57. The big casualties were NCAA champ Dedy Cooper, who was fourth, and 1972 Olympic bronze medalist Tom Hill, who hit the last two hurdles and finished eighth.

"Of course I'm pleased with the way I run," said Foster, who is 10 years Davenport's junior at 23. "I was scared, real scared when I hurt myself in the AAU Championships. But that's all behind me now and I'm looking ahead to Montreal and the Olympics next month.

"In the final at Montreal I'd like to get (France's Guy) Drut between Willie and me. It would be awfully nice to have him in that spot so if we can't beat him running, we can beat him by fighting."

Davenport, who finished seventh in the semifinals at the Tokyo Games in 1964 and fourth in the final at Munich four years ago after taking gold in Mexico City, said before Thursday's race that if he didn't win an Olympic berth he would quit.

No, he is so happy that he is talking about going on — after Montreal.

"I love to hurdle," he said. "I love track and field and it's been a big part of my life, but I've got to quit sometime. I'll probably compete indoors next winter and then hang it up."

In the women's high jump final, 18-year-old Paula Girven of Richmond, Va., won at 6-1¾, 19-year-old Oregon American champion Joni Huntley was second at 6-0½ and 18-year-old Pam Spencer of Seattle was third at 5-11¼.

Brenda Morehead of Toledo, Ohio, won the 200-meter dash in a wind-aided 22.49 for her second victory in the Trials. Earlier, the 18-year old, took the 100. Chandra Cheeseborough, who is 17, finished second in the 200 (22.64), just as she had in the 100, while Deborah Armstrong, 21, was third (22.74).

The other winner Thursday was 29-year-old Larry Hart, an Army captain from Long Beach, Calif., who took the hammer with a throw of 222-7. That was nearly four feet under the Olympic standard, so he became the only American hammer thrower to make the team — for now.

On Sunday, U.S. Olympic officials are going to hold another hammer competition with the hope Hart can clear the 226-5 standard. If he does, then Bill Diehl, who has a best of 228-0, will be added to the team as well as anyone else who makes the standard. No one is holding his breath in this event where the best the Americans can do is about 30 feet short of the East and West Germans and the Russians.

Cooper and Hill weren't the only casualties Thursday.

Bouncy Moore failed to make it in the long jump, in which 1972 Olympic gold medalist Randy Williams got off a 26-3 qualifying leap; Diehl failed in the hammer with three foul throws; Ken Randle, the NCAA champ with an American best this year of 44.99, failed to make the final in the 400-meter dash, and Randy Smith, the AAU steeplechase champion, failed to advance to the final in that event.

Today, there will be finals in the men's long jump and 400 meter dash while women's finals are in the discus and the 400 dash.

Pair of Tight Olive Games

OLIVE—Country Inn and Singer Denman hung on for close victories in the Olive Men's Slo Pitch Softball League. The Innkeepers nipped Donut Mix, 15-13, and Singer Denman edged Parker Lane Rockers, 11-10.

Marc Curry tripled to highlight the Country Inn's four-run sixth, a rally which gave the winners a five run lead. That was too much for the Donuts as Joe Palmer stopped them two runs short of a tie in the last frame.

The Rockers came closer, their five-run final surge falling just short in the sixth.

In softball action elsewhere, the SAA B Division saw Artie's Bar defeat Village 3-1 in a battle of previously unbeaten teams. Bob Garrison scattered 10 hits and boosted his record to 4-0. Paul Legg took the setback.

Mary Treat Captures Wiltwyck Class 'A'

KINGSTON — Mary Treat fired an 89 over the Wiltwyck Golf Club course to edge Charlotte Kolln by one stroke in the Class A women's tournament this week.

Third was Shorty Chase with 91.

Class B winner was Boots Overbagh, whose 96 was two shots better than Agnes Kennedy's 98.

Virginia Carpinelli fashioned a 99, Beatrice Cullum a 100 and Martha Minasian a 102.

In Class C, Flo Feeney's 103 took top honors. She was followed by Helen Potter (105), Helen Serinsky (108), Audrey Potter (110) and Grace Pughese (113).

Inger Rusk in Top Form At Woodstock Country

WOODSTOCK — It must be pretty obvious to Woodstock Country Club women that Mrs. George (Inger) Rusk returns from her Florida winter stay with her golf game in top form.

In her first two outings at the Woodstock club, she fashioned 45-42-87 in the qualifying round for the handicap match play tournament and followed up with a 39-43-82 effort in the monthly Trophy Day competition which enabled her to "retire" the current trophy. With 16 handicap, she netted 66 for the round.

Kathleen Elwyn was runnerup in the Class C division with 96 and her 96-26-70 was the second lowest net of the day. Ida Morey carded 97-26-71.

Helen Dendy led Class C with 105-30-75. Carolyn Wilson was runnerup wth 113-40-96.

***

Ruth Storyk joined the women's hole-in-one Hall of Fame at the Woodstock club when she aced the par-3 fourth hole with a perfect 5-iron shot. Ida Morey was her playing partner on the 115-yard water hole. Several other players in the vicinity witnessed the ace.

Our Strongest Diving Team?

KNOXVILLE, Tenn (UPI) — The 1976 men's Olympic three-meter diving team will be one of the strongest ever, according to newly-tapped squad members.

"We've got both youth and experience," said two-time world champion Capt. Phil Boggs of the U.S. Air Force Academy

Boggs, 26, made the three meter Olympic team Thursday, along with Greg Louganis, 16, of El Cajon Calif., and Robert Cragg, 22 of Maple Glen, Pa.

"Actually, any of the top five could have made it," he said "All are competitive divers and would give the U.S. a strong showing."

Louganis led qualifiers with a high-scoring 616.26 points for 11 dives. The performance was rated one of the best ever in the United States.

"This was my best performance ever," said Louganis, who made the Olypics on his first try.

Boggs, who led after Wednesday's preliminaries, earned the right to represent the U.S. in Montreal with a 602.67-point total, while Cragg was the third qualifier at 570.24.

Capt. Jim Henry of the U.S. Air Force, a favorite in the competition, missed the team by a scant 1.2-point margin, when his dives earned him 569.04 points.

Another favorite, AAU champ Tim Moore of Cincinnati, Ohio, was eliminated in the finals.

A Return to Baseball's Greatest Moments

NEW YORK (UPI) — For Bowie Kuhn, it must have been glorious.

The beleagured baseball commissioner presided Thursday over baseball's tribute to the most memorable moments of the game.

And Kuhn, whose office has been under a siege of lawsuits and litigation, for once seemed to enjoy his work.

Kuhn recently disallowed the sale of three Oakland A's players for $3.5 million, saying it was not in the "best interests of baseball." Since that landmark decision, Kuhn has come under heavy attack.

But Thursday Kuhn had a chance to talk about baseball — its great plays, great moments.

Joe DiMaggio, Hank Aaron and Don Larsen were the three winners of the contest.

DiMaggio's 56-game hitting streak in 1941 was voted the most memorable moment of the American League.

Aaron' 715th homer, which shattered the all-time mark held by Babe Ruth, was chosen as the most memorable moment in the National League.

Larsen's perfect game in the 1956 World Series was selected as the outstanding moment in the glamor category—World Series and All-Star competition.

The moments were selected by the nation's news media, which cast 2,391 ballots.

Guidelines in the competition allowed for the most memorable moments to come from a single play, game, series of events or an entire career.

Winners of the most memorable moment of all-time and the game's most memorable personality will be honored prior to the All-Star game on July 13 in Philadelphia.

DiMaggio's hitting streak, which covered a span of more than two months, was followed by Roger Maris' 61st home run as the supreme moment in the American League.

"Contrary to what a lot of people have been saying in recent years," DiMaggio said in a tape played before the media, "I still feel that this record, like all others, will be broken some day." The three-time Most Valuable Player said he could not attend the ceremony because of a long-standing charity commitment in San Francisco.

Aaron's climactic homer, which broke the then 39-year-old record set by Ruth after captivating national attention for months, edged out another spectacular moment in National League history—Bobby Thomson's dramatic three-run homer in the 1951 playoffs to give the New York Giants a 5-4 victory and wrest the pennant from the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Aaron was named on 785 ballots, while Thomson was named on 781.

"I want to thank God for accomplishing something I never thought would be done," the 42-year-old slugger said. "To hit that many homers you have to be surrounded by great players. And I was surrounded by great players."

Larsen, who overnight pitched himself into baseball's archives with his masterful performance against the Dodgers, now works for a paper company in San Jose, Calif.

"I'm more nervous now than I was 20 years ago," Larsen told the audience.

Bill Mazeroski's ninth inning home run in the seventh game of the 1960 World Series, which gave Pittsburgh the championship over the Yankees, drew second place in the glamorgame category.

When asked if he ever gets tired of talking about the perfect game, Larsen smiled.

"No, why should I?," he said.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Don Larsen's wife, Corrine, was listening to him being honored for having provided the Most Memorable Moment in World Series baseball history with his perfect game against the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1956 and said she wished she could've seen the game, but she didn't meet him until a year later.

She was an airline stewardess with TWA and he was on his way to see his mother in San Diego during the All-Star break.

Don Larsen had a passion for comic books He'd read all the comic books he could get his hands on, especially those dealing with ghouls and monsters, and he got such a kick out of them that the other Yankee players called him "Gooney Bird"

They all had a soft spot for the huge six-foot-four, 230-pound right-hander from Michigan City, Ind. They liked him because he had a heart as big as a bathtub, he also had a pet saying which symbolized his entire life style—"let the good times roll, Baby Doll"—and most important of all, he could pitch.

Larsen always had an eye for beauty. He'd always be the first to spot the best looking girl in the room. Same thing in a bar or on a plane. The first time he ever met the striking, darkhaired airline stewardess, who was to become his wife seven months later, was during the All-Star break in July of 1957 on a flight from Kansas City to Los Angeles.

"Don read those comic books of his almost from the moment he boarded the plane until it landed," Corrine Larsen recalled Thursday at the midtown hotel where Bowie Kuhn announced Joe DiMaggio, Hank Aaron and her husband had been responsible for three of the Most Memorable Moments in all baseball history.

Don Larsen never was anybody's dummy. Some things took precedence even over comic books

He liked this one particular stewardess, the shapely brunette whose name-plate read Corinne Bruess, so he decided to try a brand new approach on that flight to Los Angeles.

"Do you like baseball?" he asked her.

"Yes," she smiled back

"Would you like to see a game?"

"Sure I'd love to see a big league game sometime" It was arranged

"After I saw the Yankees play in Kansas City, Don gave me the phone number of the hotel he stayed at in New York and told me to call anytime," his wife remembered.

"I was on a layover in Los Angeles one night and I called him in New York. We talked one hour and the bill was $46, but he fell asleep during the conversation. Eventually, the switchboard operator came on the line and said, 'Don, are you awake?' No answer. He was sound asleep."

Don Larsen wasn't asleep the day of Oct 8, 1956

He struck out seven Dodger batters, got seven more to hit ground balls to the infield, retired nine others on flies to the outfield and three on infield pop-ups Larsen went to three balls on only one batter, Pee Wee Reese, in the first inning and then struck him out Gil Hodges hit the only line drive in the eighth inning, but third baseman Andy Carey grabbed it

Larsen got the last three men in the ninth, and there it was, the first perfect game in World Series history.

One baseball writer led off his story by saying "The Imperfect Man pitched the Perfect Game today," and that was pretty much the story.

This was the same Don Larsen who loved to live it up every night, the one who had wrapped his car around a utility pole 5 o'clock in the morning only eight months before and said to Casey Stengel, "I guess I was out past curfew, Case."

Nobody put out anymore than Don Larsen did when he was pitching, and nobody had more fun than he did after the ball game was over.

"As he always said, he wasn't a milkshake drinker, and he still doesn't drink milkshakes," Corinne Larsen laughed "Casey called him 'America's Greatest Host" and I've heard about some of his exploits I'll say this for him No man is perfect, but in my estimation, he comes close He's kind, considerate and a hard worker He's just a real all-around good American husband whom I wouldn't trade for any other one in the world"

The Stage Is Set For 'Super Fight'

TOKYO (UPI) — Heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali weighed in Friday with Antonio Inoki and vowed to "destroy" the jut-jawed Japanese wrestler Saturday (Friday in the U.S.) in a boxing-wrestling spectacle promoters unblushingly billed "the super fight of the century."

The "fight" can be seen on closed circuit TV in this area at the Washington Ave Armory in Albany.

"I'll destroy Inoki," the champion shouted as he strode toward the scale. He weighed 218 pounds. Inoki weighed in at 222 pounds.

Ali put on his usual weigh-in performance, aided by a cast of hangers-on who acted as if they were restraining the champ from attacking Inoki, who smiled tolerantly but appeared rather bored by it all.

Inoki, wearing an orange and blue robe and sandals, arrived first at the weigh-in ceremony at a downtown luxury hotel, but 23 minutes later than its scheduled start.

Ali, wearing a white robe and bedroom slippers, showed up shouting several minutes later.

Physicians for the fighters said both were in top condition. "I don't like you," Ali shouted at Inoki.

The champion threw a lot of punches in the challenger's general direction, but pulled all of them.

Getting into the spirit of the act, Inoki pointed a long forefinger at the champion, who slapped down the beefy arm of the wrestler.

"I want you tomorrow," Ali bellowed as his handlers led him back to his suite.

Ali and the American promoters Thursday abrogated a winner-take-all agreement for the bout that could turn out to be one of the most bizarre in ring history.

Television promoter Bob Arum said that Ali had made the agreement in a nationally televised signing ceremony as a publicity stunt. Promoters claimed the total purse will be in the neighborhood of $9 million.

The Inoki camp said it would reluctantly accept abrogation of the agreement so that the bout could take place.

"Ali went along with the agreement as a publicity stunt," said Arum, but added that the champion later felt compelled to cancel the pact because of his Muslim religion, which prohibits gambling. "Nothing is more important to Muhammad Ali than his religious beliefs and convictions."

Promoters say that if Ali wins he stands to pocket a paycheck in the neighborhood of dollars 6 million and that if Inoki was the victor he could pick up half that much.

Bobby Orr and the valuable document

Orr: Nervous, Rich

CHICAGO (UPI) — While 2,000 fans watched, Bobby Orr became "very nervous" and very, very rich.

The man billed as the greatest player in hockey Thursday officially signed a contract estimated at $3 million, became an instant multi-millionaire, and jumped from the Boston Bruins to the Chicago Black Hawks.

"I'm very nervous," Orr said. "It was a tough decision for me to make and it didn't happen overnight. I know I haven't made a wrong decision. I think I made the right one."

Orr, eight times an all-star defenseman in the National Hockey League and eight times voted the league's best at that spot, has yet to prove he will be able to bring returns to the Black Hawks for their investment.

He appeared in only 10 games for the Bruins last season and underwent his fifth operation on his chronically injured left knee.

Doctors say he does not need another operation and Hawks Coach Billy Reay said he is "looking for a 120-plus point season" from his new acquisition.

Orr appeared at a ceremonial contract signing ceremony at the Bismarck Theatre, owned by the Arthur Wirtz family, which also owns the Black Hawks and the majority share of the NBA Chicago Bulls franchise.

Orr played out his option last season, his 10th with the Bruins, and became a free agent on June 1. His contract with the Hawks is a multi-year agreement, but it was not revealed whether the pact extends for three years or five.

One report said he will receive $3 million over a 30-year period. But his business adviser, Alan Eagleson, said the contract provided for flat payments.

A Valdes Encore For Monzon?

PARIS (UPI) — Colombian Rodrigo Valdes rates his seven-round knockout over Benny Briscoe in 1974 for the vacant World Boxing Council middleweight title as his greatest performance.

Monte Carlo fight fans still recall the brutal battle and Valdes, conscious of an appreciative audience, plans an encore Saturday when he meets the World Boxing Association's champion, Carlos Monzon of Argentina, in the fight that will settle the question of the world middleweight crown.

"I feel now like I felt then — a winner," said the Colombian champion Thursday.

Valdes, who completed the major part of his training Wednesday, said he was confident that he would beat Monzon.

The Argentine champion who was stripped of the WBC title in 1974 when he failed to fight Valdes and the Colombian said, "He has dodged me for too long."

Valdes seemed in high spirits despite the shock of the death of his brother Raimundo, who was shot Monday.

The Colombian's mental outlook has been helped by his sparring partner, American Ali Perez.

Perez has served 29-year-old Valdes well as a sparring partner, a role for which he was chosen because like Monzon he is tall for a middleweight at 5-feet, 11-¼ inches.

He has provided Valdes with valuable practice with how to get inside Monzon's long reach.

But now Perez's new role as court jester is playing an equally important part.

"I'm trying to keep him cheerful," said Perez, who is ready-made for the job. "And trying to keep him from thinking about his brother's death."

An extrovert, Perez looks like a shorter version of his idol, Muhammad Ali, and has even adopted some of Ali's habits.

"I predict Valdes will beat Monzon between the first and tenth round," he chanted in near Ali style Thursday.

Perez has not tried his hand at rhyming yet, but he managed to get Valdes to join his routine. In a quick syncopated exchange the boxers shouted back and forth:

"Are you ready, champ?"

"I'm ready," Valdes replied.

"Are you set, champ?"

"I'm set."

"Well, what are we waiting for? Let's go," Perez shot back.

"Okay, we're going," Valdes yelled.

Monzon's training session in the tiny steam-filled gymnasium under the main stands in Louis II (roman two) soccer stadium was austere in contrast to Valdes' road show.

The 33-year-old Argentine made his last sparring session a painful one for light-heavyweight Ruben Pardo. Monzon let himself go in a furious flurry that sent Pardo crashing to the floor.

Monzon's handler Tito Lectoure yelled, "please don't fight, please don't fight" in an effort to cool down the raging Monzon.

His sparring finished, Monzon dropped his ringside menace.

"I feel more relaxed now that the fight is only a day off," Monzon said. "The nearer to the fight date, the easier I am in my mind.

Jensen, Howes Named

NEW YORK (UPI) — Olympic hero Steve Jensen and Gordie Howe's sons Mark and Marty head the list of 32 invitees named Thursday to Team USA for September's Canada Cup international hockey tournament.

Centers Curt Bennett of the Atlanta Flames, the highest-scoring American in the National Hockey League, and Robbie Ftorek of the Phoenix Roadrunners, the World Hockey Association's best-ever U.S.-born scorer and the only American in either pro league to ever surpass the 100-point figure, also figure prominently in the selections announced by Team USA Co-Managers Tommy Ivan of the Chicago Black Hawks and Bill MacFarland of the Roadrunners.

"All of the players have shown great enthusiasm in competing," said Ivan. "You can be sure our players will give more than 100 per cent, they'll be giving 125 per cent.

"It's a chance for them to play for their country and they'll give a good account of themselves. I think pride will figure very highly in whatever success we have in this tournament."

The other five teams involved in the $465,000 event beginning Sept. 2, the first of its kind involving professional players and mingling both the North American professional leagues, are Finland, Sweden, Czechoslovakia, the Soviet Union and Team Canada.

A total of 20 National Hockey League and 12 WHA players were invited, with an additional five to eight more players to be invited to training camp within the next few weeks, Ivan said. In order to be selected, a player must have been born in the U.S. or be a naturalized citizen. Amateurs may also be invited, although none has been so far.

The team will begin training for the first of its five games, Sept. 3 against Sweden at Toronto, starting Aug. 10 at Brown University in Providence, R.I. The US's other games in the round-robin event are against Canada at Montreal Sept. 5; Czechoslovakia at Philadelphia Sept. 7; the Soviet Union at Philadelphia Sept. 9; and Finland at Montreal Sept. 11.

The top two teams will play a best-of-three final series Sept. 13, 15 and 17 if necessary.

Powell's New Attitude Has Been Put to Test

CHAGRIN FALLS, Ohio (UPI) — Renee Powell's new relaxed attitude has been put to the test.

Powell, still looking for her first victory in 10 years on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour, left Tanglewood Country Club Thursday after shooting a two over par 74 with a one shot lead in the $100,000 Babe Zaharias Invitational Classic.

But the lead, made shaky by a day-long rain which had forced a mid-afternoon suspension of play, went down the drain shortly afterward when the persistent wet weather forced LPGA officials to call off the first round at 4:20 p.m.

"The course is unplayable," said LPGA publicity coordinator Jeff Adams in announcing that the round had been called off. "There is no way the round can be completed."

The washout means the scores of the 37 players who finished the first round go down the drain, including Powell's 74.

Not long before, Powell, who grew up just down the road from this Cleveland suburb in East Canton, Ohio, but now plays out of London, England, was telling newsmen of her relaxed attitude.

"I've been working more on my golf game," said 30-year-old Powell, whose father owns and operates a golf course in East Canton. "And my personal life is also much more relaxed now," giving credit for that to her fiance, Christopher Lawrence.

"He talks to me a lot," said Powell, whose tie for 15th in last weekend's Hoosier Classic is her best finish in 12 tournaments this year. "He doesn't let me get upset over a bad shot."

Considering the rain, Powell said she was "pretty pleased" with her two over round.

"I hit the ball good," she said, "but I made a few mistakes."

By VIC WATIA

CHICAGO (UPI) — What happens to those little boys who used to bring home frogs and snakes hidden in their pockets or always seemed to be followed to the doorstep by stray cats and dogs?

Well in my case I graduated to stray fishermen

Just the other night for example I failed to catch that look in my wife's eye Oh no here we go again ' when a young man came up to me with a look of desperation in his eyes in the sporting goods department of a south surburban chain store

His wife and three children tagged after him

"Excuse me," he said, "you don't happen to be a fisherman by any chance?"

"As a matter of fact, I am," I said, nearly laughing at the irony of it

'Good, you're just what I'm looking for," he said, breathing a sigh of relief "Do you know anything about coho fishing?"

'I've done my share of it," I replied

"I'm going coho fishing for the first time tomorrow morning," he said "We're leaving at five and the two guys I'm going with have never gone before either The salesman here knows nothing about fishing Do you think you could help me pick out some lures?"

' I think I can help you," I said

However that particular store lacked a supply of coho tackle Since most other stores in the area were already closed I invited the man who introduced himself as John, to follow me home where I was certain I could lend him the tackle he needed But first I made sure he purchased a fishing license and salmon stamp another matter he had overlooked

You'd do that for a complete stranger? he asked after I issued him the invitation

Why not you're a fisherman aren't you? I replied

People just don't do that in a city he said shaking his head I mean invite strangers to their house You never know what's going to happen

Perhaps he was right but having been raised in a rural area where there always was a common bond between outdoorsmen the thought had never crossed my mind I hope it never does

When we arrived home, I rustled some coho fishing gear together for John Meanwhile, my wife, Carol, entertained his wife, Mary, and my 4-year-old daughter, Kendra, enjoyed the company of their children, who were near the same age

What started out as a chance meeting, turned into a couple of hours of pleasant conversation

John said the reason he had approached me in the first place was that one of his friends did the same thing in another store and was steered in the right direction

He said if it worked for him it should work for me ' John said So I took his advice

But when John and his family left he was still shaking his head in disbelief over our hospitality

I could understand his feelings In traveling thousands of miles across country to fish and hunt, I've often had to call on other outdoorsmen for assistance And each time they have gone out of their way to help me Their cooperation often left me shaking my head in similar disbelief

You're like a kid," my wife commented after they had gone "You're always bringing home lost waifs"

"No, ' I said "Just fishermen"

DEC Commissioner Redefines Bait Laws

ALBANY—Due to varied interpretations of current fish bait regulations New York State Commissioner of Environmental Conservation Peter A. A Berle has issued a redefintion of the bait laws

In many areas of the state fishermen can not use any natural bait This has prompted many anglers to use plastic worms and insects. The new guidlines would make this practice legal.

Berle's statement reads in part "Artificial lures or bait shall mean man-made flies, spinners, spoons, plugs, jigs and other lures " The new definition also allows for the use of "some natural substances" This would include such things as hair or a feather from natural bait

Berle redefined natural bait as "all baits which entice or might be ingested or swallowed by fish " This includes all of the usual baits employed by fishermen such as fish eggs

The ruling also allows for the use of insects in all stages of development (larvae, pupae, etc), pork rinds, liver, meat, corn or other vegetable matter, tapioca, candy, cheese and bread.

Oil Clean-Up Efforts Continue in St. Lawrence

ALEXANDRIA BAY, N.Y. (UPI) — Oil clean-up efforts continue in the St. Lawrence River as officials try to restore commercial shipping that has slowed to a crawl and pleasure boating that has been halted.

The Coast Guard said Thursday the 15-mile area from Blind Bay to Round Island would be closed to recreational craft at least until the weekend and the distance involved could be extended.

Heavy oil from a spill estimated at 308,000 gallons extended from the scenic islands to between Morristown, on the U.S. side of the river, and Brockville, on the Canadian side.

Ships were allowed to move at about 7 miles per hour instead of the customary 9, and traffic was restricted to one way. Three or four vessels were being allowed to move downbound through the area at one time; then three or four others would move toward the Great Lakes.

Coast Guard Commander Jerome Foley, on-scene officer directing the cleanup, said the heaviest concentrations of oil were in the shipping channel and some had reached into Canadian waters.

Vacuum trucks were working along the shoreline of Alexandria and Chippewa bays sucking up the tar-like No. 6 fuel oil. More than 30,000 feet of boom has been deployed so far in various locations.

Foley said cleanup experts were hoping to stop most of the oil at Ogdensburg, where the oil was expected to appear late Thursday night or early Friday.

He said deflector booms would be set up near the Ogdensburg lighthouse. They will be laid on an angle so they will deflect toward the lighthouse, which provides a natural boom, and will keep the oil from flowing any further downriver, he said.

By the time it gets to Ogdensburg, the oil will have traveled 35 to 40 miles.

The oil spilled into the river early Wednesday when the barge Nepco 140 being pushed by a tug hit a shoal in heavy fog three of its tanks ruptured.

Foley said the three tanks holed were being pumped out and oil remaining in them was being taken on by another barge. The pumping area was boomed and a skimmer stood could spill during the pumping.

The New England Petroleum Co. barge itself will be allowed to continue on to its destination, a Niagara Mohawk Power corp. plant at Oswego, with rest of 6million gallon cargo after being cleaned off, inspected by the Coast Guard and the St. Lawrence Seaway Corp. and found seaworthy.

As for wildlife in the spill area, there have been reports so far of at least six dead birds, Foley said. In addition, four oilcoated blue herons were picked up by conservation personnel for cleaning.

Special precautions were by to take up any oil that taken in Chippewa and Goose Bays to protect the waterfowl, and they were relatively oil free.

Foley also said the Coast Guard was getting a list from Mayor Steven Taylor of all areas boomed and they will be given high priority for cleanup in order to get tour boats operating. New England Petroleum Co. representatives were slated to establish a regional claims office in the near future.

Braniff Marks 48th and Still Making Money

DALLAS (UPI) — Braniff International, 48 years old this month, has successfully grown from one five-seater to a fleet of 81 jetliners — the 15th largest airline in the world.

Unlike many, it still is making money.

Braniff was founded June 20, 1928, by Thomas E. Braniff who pioneered the airline from its humble, single engine, single aircraft service between Tulsa and Oklahoma City.

Before he died, in a private plane crash in Louisiana in 1954, Braniff had successfully pointed his corporation in the right direction.

Today, the line, with 10,700 employes, flies 30,000 miles to 45 U.S. mainland cities, to Hawaii, Mexico and South America, carrying 8,500,000 passengers annually and operating 500 daily departures.

Last year, Braniff had a total operating revenue of $600 million, net income of $16 million. Its earnings per-share growth ranks first among U.S. airlines, and its passenger traffic growth rate is four times higher than the domestic industry average.

The airline has a splashy, modern image, has contributed extensively to the arts and is associated in the minds of many Americans with its "Flying Colors" jet, painted by modernist artist Alexander Calder.

Construction begins this summer on a $25 million complex at the Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport. Covering 340,000 square feet, the building will house the airline's administrative divisions, along with a training center, computer complex and recreation facility.

Observers credit sound planning, proper equipment choice and a bright management for Braniff's success and rosy economic outlook. Its bureaucracy is relatively lean. When a decision is to be made, it usually is made by the manager whose area is to be affected.

Braniff's attention to the details of image extend especially to its flight attendants, the public's principal onboard contact with the company.

William F. Smith, vice president of Customer Services, is in charge of flight attendant training, including mandatory yearly refresher courses for each of the 1,800 attendants.

Where, years ago, the field had an extremely high turnover, Smith said, today "they realize it's a good, highly skilled career. It's a highly sought-after job."

Pilot Safety Quarantine Stills the Canadian Air

OTTAWA (UPI) — Air travel to and from Canada was virtually at a standstill today and Air Canada, the nation's largest carrier, said it has laid off about 12,000 employes for an indefinite period.

The U.S. Air Line Pilots Association, joining at least three European airlines, Thursday declared a "safety quarantine" on traffic in and out of Canada, starting at 12:01 a.m. today.

Halting an estimated 150 flights per day, the move came amid frantic efforts by government officials to end the crippling dispute over the use of French in air communication.

"We are imposing this safety quarantine because we think the environment is ripe right now for near-misses and safetyrelated problems," an ALPA spokesman said in Washington, D.C.

ALPA President J. J. O'Donnell said there was a "threat to safety in Canadian air space, brought about by controllers' objections to the government's pressure to introduce French in air-to-ground communications."

The U.S. position followed the earlier boycotts of air service to Canada by Irish International Airlines, Scandinavian Airlines and British Airways. Domestic flights have been interrupted since Sunday by the dispute.

The ALPA position halted flights by nine leading American airlines into Canada.

One of the largest, Eastern Airlines, discontinued indefinitely all flights to Ottawa, Montreal and Toronto, but said it would provide a bus service to the latter two cities from nearby border points.

Some other airlines were reported making similar arrangements.

A second major airline, Canada's CP Air, said it would follow Air Canada's lead in laying off employes at midnight tonight, if no solution had been reached. CP spokesmen said about 6,500 employes would be affected.

CALPA President Ken Maley claimed there have been nine near misses by airliners because of the use of French by air traffic controllers.

M-HSA Elects

By Jo Ann Cicale
Correspondent

KERHONKSON — Christine Bergensten of Kerhonkson is the new chairman of the Mid-Hudson Schizophrenia Association

Erdine Antonsen of Bloomington, the former chairman, is acting treasurer of the group, which met recently to become active once again. Plans were made for future goals, including a new name for the association.

M-HSA works in cooperation with the Huxley Institute in New York City and avows itself to community help. The association subscribes to the mega-vitamin treatment of all mental disorders,including schizophrenia, and believes most disorders are of a biochemical nature

In the past, the association worked closely with the Ulster County Association for Children with Learning Disabilities and has voted to continue this relationship.

Plans for the coming year include a family picnic this summer and several guest speakers in the fall and spring Members agreed to offer advice and counseling to those who need it and to act as a referral agency for mega-vitamin therapy doctors

Further information may be had by calling Mrs Bergensten or Mrs Antonsen.

The Chesapeake Bay is the world s greatest single source of oysters Sown regularly with seed oysters the bay yields some 20 million pounds of the shellfish every year

PSC Rules On Phone Service

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — All telephone companies in the state must provide cheap and simple connection of certified customer owned answering and recording machines to phones, a Public Service Commission rule says

The commission said the order, given Thursday, was an extension of a directive which has been in effect for New York Telephone Co since June 11

The companies were given 45 days to file tariff rules carrying out the order

Under the directive, customers will be able to connect answering machines and other recording devices which meet technical standards without the use of a protective device which is currently required

The order resulted from complaints by consumers that company rules requiring the use of special company-provided couplng devices with the answering machines were unjustified

Carey Asks Ford Aid

ALBANY, N.Y (UPI) — Gov Hugh Carey is asking President Ford for federal aid to clean up Long Island beaches inundated this week by garbage, sludge and sewage

"I ask that you direct federal agencies to assist in every way in the clean up effort," Carey said in a telegram Thursday

The governor said a "joint state federal endeavor is needed to assure the protection of public health"

On Wednesday, Carey declared a state disaster in the area and ordered emergency efforts by state agencies to clean up the beaches

Police Get Blue Flu

BUFFALO, N Y. (UPI) — In an apparent protest of planned layoffs in the city's police force more than two thirds of today's first shift called in sick Thursday night leaving many precincts with no patrolmen as city officials scrambled to fill the gap

Police officials in the state's second largest city said detectives and police executives were manning the unstaffed precincts, with detectives expecting to be asked to don uniforms to walk the beat

By midnight the number of patrolmen who had called in sick had reached 120, out of approximately 165 who regularly work the midnight to 8 a m trick

Assistant Chief of Detectives Gerald G Fraterrigo said the men had called in with the flu and a variety of ailments', and said the action was affecting all 14 precincts

Fraterrigo and department sources said the sick out was apparently an action to protest a possible layoff of some 200 patrolmen Shortly after the first sick call police headquarters reportedly informed all precincts that any others calling in sick would be on leave without pay unless they could prove they were ill

However the president of the Buffalo Police Benevolent Association Capt Kevin Harmon said the sick calls did not represent a work action

Fraterrigo confirmed reports the department Thursday had released lists with the names of some 200 police officers with up to nine years seniority who might be laid off unless the city received needed federal funds by July 1

A source in the department said the union met Thursday following release of the lists Afterwards the department began receiving the sick calls Details of the meeting were not immediately known

As part of the economy move should the city not get the funds several detectives would be made acting detectives and several would be demoted to patrolmen the department source said thus saving the city money in salaries

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

SATURDAY, JUNE 26

Your birthday today: This year's going is generally pleasant, but repetitious enough to keep you busy as you try to improve your skills. Higher levels of spiritual involvement require an apprenticeship of sorts. Group interests surpass purely individual goals. Relationships grow closer as you share your experience. Today's natives are sensitive to social issues.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Business is out as you make this a personal holiday. Pursue entertainment and cultural events Stay clear of people who change their minds.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): You're rather well off, considering what might have come to pass. Relax and gain perspective on the courses taken. Join in competitive games.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Much that you expect to happen doesn't or comes about in a surprising way Scattering mental energy is inevitable. Listen for details of personal interest.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Go along with the tide and keep the peace while your thoughts rove over the prospects ahead The ideas you conjure up now are rudimentary

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Mental clearance is your prime need of the moment. You feel refreshed and encouraged once you decide to drop obsolete habits Catch up on correspondence.

Virgo (Aug 23-Sept 22): Social movement is lively. Keep activity light this weekend There'll be another time for matters that deserve further cultivating

Libra (Sept 23-Oct. 22): Skip commercial action and business decisions, since you will soon get further information. Energetic friends organize interesting expeditions; go along for the ride.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Excitement comes on strong, but it's premature to select your main direction. Sleep over the choices offered, but be free to move when the light is green

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): This is a family day. If you haven't family of your own, turn out to watch the crowds. Spend wisely, be sure to stick to your budget.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Your weekend is experimental, yielding an abundance of ideas. Monetary reward comes later, when you enact your plans Volunteer your services where advisable.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Advice misses the point; listen to your own deeper feelings. Others are in no mood to listen to suggestions, present them again later on.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20). An experience you enjoyed is repeated. Slight detours crop up along the way, keep a sense of humor Invite friends in for a reunion.

NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN

Jean Adams TEEN FORUM

By Jean Adams, Phd.

CHANGE: (Q.) My best friend, Susan, isn't doing as many things with me anymore. I found out, also, that she is saying things behind my back.

She says we're still best friends, but she's always out with other girls. I asked her a couple of times to do things with me. She said yes, but she went and did them with a girl named Nancy. Should I keep Susan as my best friend. We are both 12. — Lonesome in Wisconsin

(A.) Susan hasn't talked to you about it, but she has stopped being your best friend. So you don't have to decide about keeping her. She has already made the decision.

Don't worry about this change on her part. It is natural to find and adopt new friends as we go along. It is good for us.

Susan has done that. Now you must go out and find a new friend or friends for yourself.

MARRIAGE: (Q.) Debra is as sweet as can be. We love each other very much and want to get married I'm joining the Army in October and I know I could support us both Debbie is 16 and I'm 18.

Please don't tell us about the teenage divorce rates We know we would stay together if we got married. I could get permission from my CO but her mom doesn't like me, even though I have never done anything to her.

Also, please don't tell me Debra is not mature enough to know whether or not she really wants to marry me. She is more mature than most OLDER people. I believe I'm pretty mature myself. I believe I know what I want and she does too. --No Doubts in Indiana

(A.) Debra's mother may not dislike you. She may just not know you well enough to be sure about you. Spend a couple of years getting to know her better, and letting her get to know you.

Then, when Debra is 18, if you and she still want to get married, I am confident that her mother won't object.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Young Jim adds to arsenal

By Oswald & James Jacoby

With my father away in Korea I had to learn bridge on my own I did get a little long-range advice and in one letter he told me to try to learn single suit plays

I don't think I know them all by now, but I didn't back then One of the first I learned was the so-called "Obligatory finesse"

I learned it quite accidentally It was that same tournament that I won with life master Phil Briggs when I was just starting

The defense started with three rounds of clubs I ruffed the third club and promptly led a heart to dummy Maybe West would hop up with his ace and let me make what looked like an impossible contract That didn't happen He played low and I had to put up dummy's king

I drew trumps, stopping in dummy, led back a heart toward my hand went into a huddle and finally played a low heart West had to play his ace and my rather poor contract had waltzed in

Dried Up

Two cows pass by watering hole in Semur En Vallon, France, now left dry by France's worst drought since 1725 (UPI)

W. Europe Drought Worst in 250 Years

BRUSSELS, Belgium (UPI) — It may be fun for sun-worshippers, but farmers in Western Europe are struggling through the worst drought in 250 years, with no letup in sight.

Women wander around in bikinis in Bonn, miles from the sea. A rainwear factory in Scotland gave up and closed, and a new fainting record was set during the steam-oven Wimbledon tennis championships with more than 500 persons passing out in a day.

But worst hit of all are the agriculture and livestock regions of Britain and northwestern France, where parched landscapes have taken on a yellow, dusty coloring in the practically rainless past weeks.

Statistics show Britain has just suffered its driest year since 1727, and the drought in France is described as the worst since 1725 with only a third of the normal rainfall.

"Even if the rains came now," a French meteorologist said, "it would be too late to save spring corn and cereal crops."

Parts of Holland, West Germany, Switzerland, Luxembourg and usually wet Belgium also are in bad shape with fears of worse to come if prolonged, heavy rains do not arrive soon.

Other European countries report normal weather conditions.

Water is already being rationed in parts of France to try to save the once-rich farming and grazing lands in the Loire Valley, Brittany and Normandy.

In England, the Thames Conservancy Board cut, by half, the flow of the river from a normal minimum of 100 million gallons a day to 50 million. In places, the Thames is a mere trickle, making navigation almost impossible for pleasure boats.

"We have had to take two of our regular services off," said a spokesman for Thames launches. "We're bumping the bottom all the time.

Beef cattle in many countries already are being fed next winter's feed. More will have to be imported from outside Europe later, which will send import food bills sky-rocketing especially for France, Switzerland and Britain.

Some farmers in southern England are hauling their cattle 400 miles north to greener pastures in Scotland.

Others are taking them prematurely to the slaughterhouse, adding to the existing beef surplus in Europe.

But it isn't bad for everyone Sales of summer clothing, ice cream, soft drinks and beer are soaring. Belgian manufacturers refused to disclose their increased profits, but one soft drink distributor said demand was so high empties couldn't be returned to bottling plants quickly enough.

Court on Wages..Praise, Critics

WASHINGTON (UPI) — State and local government representatives are praising the Supreme Court for removing their employes from federal wage-hour coverage, but organized labor calls the ruling a regressive action with grave implications.

It was the first time in 40 years that the court has struck down major economic legislation passed by Congress on grounds it interfered with state and local powers.

It declared unconstitutional the 1974 amendments to the Fair Labor Standards Act providing minimum wage and overtime protection to 3.4 million persons on state and local government payrolls.

The National League of Cities and the National Governors Conference, two of the groups that successfully challenged the federal law, joined the National Association of Counties in saying the Thursday ruling will be good for the American form of government.

The justices also reversed a 1968 decision approving earlier federal minimum wage laws applied to 2.9 million teachers, public hospital and transit employes.

Justice William H. Rehnquist said the laws intruded on the authority of local and state governments to engage in labor-management relations.

Dissenter William J. Brennan Jr. accused the court of reviving discredited constitutional theories from the 1930s, which struck down New Deal economic legislation aimed at ending the Great Depression.

A spokesman for the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes said the ruling has "grave implications" for other basic protections afforded the nation's public employes — including unemployment compensation, safety standards and a federal collective bargaining law.

But the National League of Cities said without the ruling, taxpayers would have been forced to pay an additional $1 billion each year to meet the law's requirements or face severe cutbacks in essential services such as fire and police protection.

Union Offices

WILLOW GROVE, Pa (UPI) — Despite the growth of the union movement in the last generation, a survey shows 92 per cent of the offices in U.S. firms are not unionized. The survey, made by the Administrative Management Society, a non-profit management group, showed that only 6 per cent reported a partial unionization of their offices, while the remaining 2 per cent said their office employes were 100 per cent unionized.
